RECENTLY a doctor of middle age was murdered because he refused to answer a late night call. The woman calling him had died.

Yesterday in Brooklyn, a similar shocking tragedy occurred. A doctor, called by the family of a sick child, was delayed by some cause unknown. The child died and the doctor, arriving twenty minutes after the death, was murdered by inmates of the household, his throat cut, in revenge for the child's death.

MEDICINE is a profession not to be envied, or entered upon lightly. Four hundred years before Christ, Hippocrates, first real doctor, wrote the oath that begins:

I swear by Apollo, the physician, and Aesculapius and Hygeia and Panac, invoking all the Gods and Goddesses to be my witnesses that I will fulfill this oath and this written covenant to the best of my power and of my judgment.

When he worded that oath, binding those that swore to the

PROF. LORD TO LEAVE COLLEGE

Professor Robert Howard Lord of Harvard, an international authority on European history and a convert to the Catholic religion, is studying for the priesthood at St. John's Seminary, Brighton.

His resignation as a professor is soon to be handed to the Harvard authorities, it is said.

A college girl played an important role in Professor Lord's conversion and, therefore, indirectly in his decision to become a Catholic priest at the age of forty-two, after a successful university career.

This girl, a student at Radcliffe and a pupil in one of the professor's history clases several years ago, took occasion to criticize some of his statements regarding Catholicity in French history. She entered into a spirited discussion with him about church history and stimulated him to fresh study.

SOON BAPTIZED .

At the conclusion of this study Professor Lord began taking instructions from a priest of one of the Boston parishes and was soon afterward baptized.

TEARS SELF TO BITS

Peabody, Feb. 14.—Laying himself on a death bed of dynamite sticks, William Vanderbilt, 70, a contractor, was blown into oblivion today when he touched off the charge beneath him. In the explosion which followed windows were shattered and the entire section of South Peabody was rocked.

Frightened inhabitants reported to police and on investigation atoms of the suicide's body were found scattered about the landscape in a radius of half a mile. Parts of his body were found in the tree tops and in the swamp where he had chosen to take his life a yawning chasm told the tale of the terrific force of the explosion. He had used at least a dozen sticks of dynamite in taking his life.

Vanderbilt left his home at No. 175 Lynn street early today. It is believed he went directly to a shack in which he had stored explosives used in his contracting business. Taking 12 sticks of dynamite he left the shack and went into the middle of a swamp, according to police.

Digging a hole he placed the dynamite in it, set the fuse and in an instant was blown to atoms. Police learned he was scheduled to appear in court today in a case in which a child's fingers had been blown off by a dynamite cap.

THREE MEN MISSING FROM ELSIE G. SILVA

Gloucester schooner was wrecked near the tip of Cape Cod during the blinding snowstorm. Seventeen fishermen were rescued by the coast guard, but three went adrift in a dory.

17 GLOUCESTER MEN SAVED IN CAPE STORM

Seventeen fishermen were rescued and three were missing in an open dory in the blinding snow which harassed shipping all along the New England coast today, besides stalling traffic ashore and disrupting tral nand trolley service.

Coast Guards rescued most of the crew of the two-masted Gloucester schooner Elsie G. Silva after the boat piled high on the rocks one mile south of Pamet River, near the tip of Cape Cod.

As the ship struck, the crew of 20 took to the small boats. Captain Manuel Silva and four men reached shore in one boat, but the other dories were swept southward by the storm.

Coast Guards from the Wood's End station picked up four boatloads of men, while the Truro Coast Guards, led by Chief Boatswain H. E. Kelley, having receiving the alarm from Captain Silva and his companions, set out to search the sea for one missing dory.

Swirling snow made their search almost hopeless and meanwhile the schooner, one end high on the rocks, was being battered to pieces by waves. The vessel was bound to Gloucester after a successful trip, carrying more than 50,000 pounds of fish.

The storm brought the snowfall of the Winter to date to more than 45 inches. The weather forecaster predicted a change to rain, with warmer weather accompanying the change.

TAXI CHAUFFEURS IN 'WALK-OUT PARADE' TURN IN BOSTON CABS

Demanding $4 a day, and refusing an offer of $3.50, taxi drivers numbering 400 employed by the Town Taxi Company and the Yellow Taxi Company went on strike at noon today.

Following an all-night meeting, at which the drivers voted to strike immediately, the men congregated at Newberry and Dartmouth streets shortly before noon.

Forming their cabs into a long line, the drivers headed for the Charlesgate Garage where the Town Taxi Company keeps its cabs. There they were met by President John T. Rockett, who took charge of the checking in. There were more than 250 cabs in the procession to the garage.

POLICE CALLED OUT.

As soon as the men started checking their cabs into the garage Rockett announced he was prepared to put twenty cabs on the streets later today. The drivers will be accompanied by uniformed policemen. Rockett announced the company would fight the strike to the last ditch.

"We are the only taxi company in the United States which recognizes unions," he said. "Other cab companies have been forced to the wall by paying too high wages. We cannot do that. If we granted the Portland, Me., Feb. 14.—Wildly pacing his cell in Cumberland County Jail and muttering threats to assassinate some third victim, Benjamin H. Turner, life convict, began his fourth day of fasting today in his suicidal hunger strike.

Not since noon on last Friday, the day he was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of James D. Hallen at Falmouth Foreside, has a fragment of food been taken into Turner's mouth.

Haggard and drawn of face, with sunken eyes glaring and with lips that move almost constantly in mutterings that for the most part are incoherent, Turner has pushed aside all meals proffered—pushed them aside sometimes wearily and some-

Bangor, Me., Feb. 14 (I.N.S.).—State and city investigations were in progress today to determine the origin of a $1,000,000 fire which swept four buildings housing fifty stores in the heart of the retail district.

The fire, which burned the area bounded by Columbia, Cross, Hammond and Maine streets, was attacking the roof and rear walls of City Hall when finally controlled.

The structures burned were the Coe Building, the Hatch Building, Y. M. C. A. Building and a smaller structure.

17 GLOUCESTER MEN SAVED IN SNOWSTORM OFF CAPE COD

Weather conditions were reported unsettled throughout the entire country, from coast to coast. Storm warnings were posted by the government from Sandy Hook to Eastport, Me.

BATTLE WITH SNOW

Schools were closed in many cities and towns in Greater Boston and country districts beyond as the snow clogged highways and piled deep over streets and sidewalks, making passage by automobile and on foot slow until thousands of city and town laborers began to make headway with plows and tractors.

Nearly 1,500 city employes were at work on Boston streets at an early hour and Mayor Nichols and Public Works Commissioner James H. Sullivan called on 500 contract laborers in addition, planning to work them all night, if necessary.

The work of clearing the streets in the Hub was concentrated chiefly on the downtown district from the North Station to Massachusetts avenue, together with the principal arteries of traffic in and out of the city.

The park department had 300 men at work in the Fenway, Jamaicaway, Strandway, Commonwealth avenue and other highways under its charge.

Thousands of commuters who ordinarily use automobiles crowded into steam trains and electrics, causing congestion at all points and slowing up rail traffic into the city.

70 PLOWS ARE ON JOB

Mayor Nichols, whose honeymoon trip was cut short by the last big storm in December, was planning a few days vacation in New York beginning tonight, but he said as he reached City Hall today that it looked as if snow would again interfere with his plans.

Seventy plows, four tractors and four automatic snow-loaders were the equipment put to work shortly before daybreak by the Public Works Department.

In many outlying sections, where automobiles had unwisely been left parked outdoors overnight, drifts had hopelessly buried them.

Drifts in many places made travel difficult and many drivers had to abandon their cars en route to work.

All along the shore Coast Guards were on watch for ships in distress. Small vessels raced for port through the swirling flakes and several ships, due to sail, delayed their departure because of dangers from the heavy veil of wind-swept snow.

The Boston & Maine, New Haven, Boston & Albany, Boston Elevated Railway and Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway ordered all plow equipment into service.

Coastwise vessels arived in port hours behind schedule, having borne the brunt of the storm off Cape Cod. Ferries, tugs and other harbor craft crept slowly through the snow. Harbor-front buildings, as well as ships at wharves, were plastered with wind-lashed snow.

Northern New York Is Buried in Snow

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14 (A.P.)—Up-State New York was buried under a blanket of snow today.

The deepest—ten inches—was reported from Utica, where drifts were piled by a high wind, seriously interfering with street railway and interurban traffic.

About six inches fell in Albany, but caused no delay in trolley and other vehicular traffic.

In the southwestern corner of the State, Hornell reported a two-inch fall, which was followed by rain that froze as fast as it fell and made travelling dangerous. Similar conditions prevailed at Jamestown.

40 Killed as Cyclone Sweeps Queensland

Brisbane, Australia, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Between thirty and forty persons are believed to have been killed in the cyclone which struck the Cairns district, on the east coast of Queensland, last Wednesday morning. All communication was interrupted and the only news received by wireless is meagre.

The material damage is known to be extremely heavy, particularly at Ingham, where numerous houses were washed away by swollen streams.

The Rivers Herbert and Burdekin, near Ingham, reached from 60 to 70 feet above normal. It is believed that the sugar crop was damaged 150,000 tons.

Slashing Charge, 25 Years Old, Is His 'Valentine'

The missive, delivered by a minion of the law, was a summons to court to face a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

It is charged that on October 18, 1901, in an altercation Flower wielded a knife. Silva today showed scars of wounds that he said he received on that occasion. Flower departed for K[illegible] ly after the slashing [illegible] return until last we[illegible] to Silva.

drivers' demands we, too, would be backed to the wall."

CONFERENCES FAIL.

The demands which Rockett refused to grant are that the drivers be paid $4 for a nine-hour day and 55 cents an hour overtime. The counter proposal as given by the Town Taxi Company is that the men take $3.50 for the nine hour day and then 35 per cent. of all over $9 collected during the day or $10 during the night.

Before the parade to the garage today the drivers had again met and voted to strike at their gathering place, No. 995 Washington street. Up to that time efforts were being made to prevent the strike. Conferences were held between leaders during the morning, but all to no avail.

The strike meeting was held to consider the renewal of contracts with the companies which expired Feb. 1. Working agreements which were in effect up to that date have been in order since then. A strike has been brewing among the Town Taxi drivers for several months because the company announced some time ago that a new wage scale of $3.50 a day would be demanded.

BOY HUSBAND'S PLEA DENIED

in order to get married, the marriage at Manchester, N. H., was legal in every respect and Wanzer must remain a hubby, as far as annulment is concerned.

The annulment case was heard two weeks ago by Judge Chamberlain. According to testimony, young Wanzer on last July 20, with the Randall girl and another couple, went to Manchester, N. H., where he gave his age as 23 and that of Miss Randall as 22. Wanzer admitted in court that he was in reality 17 years old and his bride 19.

They were married in Manchester and returned to Hull, where they lived for a short time together.

Last Fall the court was asked to declare the marriage void.

Judge Chamberlain today ruled that the marriage is O. K. and binding in every respect. He said:

"There is no law in this Commonwealth prohibiting and making void the marriage of a male 17 years old and a female 19 years of age.

"Therefore, while a magistrate or minister incurs a penalty for solemnizing a marriage where he has reasonable cause to believe a man is under 21 or a female is under 18, not having the consent of the parents—in certain cases, that of the Probate Court where it is substituted for the parents—the marriage is valid and binding on the parties."

ably made in a number of instances."

The report was submitted as a result of the order by Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, calling upon the board to submit full information relative to light and power companies and light and power prices.

It was placed in the hands of the Speaker of the House with bills prepared by the commission that would give the board even more authority in fixing and regulating prices than that sought by Representative Shattuck in the fight against high rates.

Instead of possessing authority merely to fix maximum rates on gas and electricity, the commission wants full scope to regulate all prices, even below the maximum, and rates affected by the fixing of maximums.

This jurisdiction over the entire rate structure, the commission said, would eliminate all discrimination.

"In the present status," the report said, "the rates of the large power users are only controlled by competitive conditions determined by the facility of obtaining other means of power, while the smaller user of power is without protection whatever other than that afforded by the authority of the department in fixing the maximum rate.

"This results frequently in a lower rate, at the expense of the smaller user."

No authority is desired to fix rates or charges made by municipal plants, the report pointed out. It said in this regard:

"These plants are public plants, the prices and the charges being in the control of the inhabitants themselves.

"We see no occasion at the present time why this department should be given the power to substitute its judgment for that of the local authorities."

dents flocked especially to his classes in the history of Europe since 1815. His value as an instructor was enhanced by his experience as technical adviser to the American Commission to Negotiate Peace in 1919.

His commencement of study for the priesthood last September, after obtaining a year's leave of absence from Harvard, was known to the Boston Evening American, but out of respect to his wishes the announcement was delayed. Professor Lord said at that time:

"I appreciate the newspaper side of this matter, but I earnestly request that nothing be pumlished until after I have taken steps to sever officially my connection with Harvard. Except for this reason I have no other reason for withholding the facts from the public."

His resignation, it is understood, s now on its way to the officers of the university, who are expected to accept, in accordance with his wishes.

RECOGNIZED IN WAR

Tall and slender, rather youthful in appearance but with an air of dignified reserve, Professor Lord does not look his age. But his store of knowledge was recognized in full at the time of post-war adjustments and he was made chief of the Department of Polish Affairs at the Peace Conference.

He was one of the two American representatives on the interallied Commission that was sent to Poland in 1919. He is the author of "The Second Partition of Poland,' and "The Origins of the War of 1870," besides many historical tracts. He collaborated with Prof. Haskins on "Some Problems of the Peace Conference," and with Professors Coolidge, Hazen and Thayer on "Three Peace Congresses of the Nineteenth Century."

STUDIED ABROAD

He is a graduate of Harvard with the class of 1906, receiving his A. B. degree "magna cum laude." After two years in graduate study, ending with his receipt of the A. M. degree, he studied abroad for two more years, then returning to obtain his doctor of philosophy degree at Harvard in 1910.

While in Europe he studied at the universities of Vienna, Berlin and Moscow. From 1910 to 1916 he was an instructor in history at Harvard, from 1916 to 1922 an assistant professor, from 1922 to 1924 an associate professor, and he became a full professor in 1924.

He has an honorary degree from the University of Iwow, Lemberg, Poland.

Coyner has acknowledged that the trunk belonged to him, but denied he knew anything of the skulls. FORTUNE WILL NEVER CRUSH HIM, HE SAYS

Detroit, Feb. 14 (Universal).—A New England man, anxious to preserve as a shrine the Wayside Inn at Sudbury, first appealed to Henry Ford for funds, the master of a million flivvers said here today, and thereby interested Ford in the subject.

"He first asked me for $15,000 which I gave him," said Ford. "Then he made another appeal, and I proposed that I buy the Inn and return their money to others who had contributed for its preservation.

"It cost me $60,000, but the strange part is that it is self-supporting now and some day may even return me dividends.

"I bought the school where the lamb followed Mary as the beginning of an idea which I believe will someday demonstrate that it is possible to educate children and at the same time enable them to earn real money."

CLEAN MONEY.

Mr. Ford spoke quietly of the fortune that has made him the richest man the world ever knew. He said:

"My fortune will never become a Frankenstein so enormous that it will eventually crush its creator," he said.

After making the statement about his fortune, Mr. Ford hesitated before adding to it. Finally, he said:

"And I'll tell you why. The money I have accumulated is not the product of down-trodden, underpaid, blood-sweat labor. It is clean money.

It was suggested that it seemed strange that he had never been the object of caricaturists as "the bloated plutocrat, riding on money bags." A dry smile flitted across the tanned face.

"Maybe my figure does not lend itself to the bloated idea. But I like to believe what I have been told that fewer persons begrudge me my wealth than any other man of outstanding means."

SAYS DRY CHIEF TIPS OFF CLUBS

Washington, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Renewing his attack against prohibition administration in New York City, Representative Laguardia, Republican, New York, in a letter today to Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury, charged Chester P. Mills, New York City prohibition administrator, with having "tipped off" night clubs of a raid by dry agents last Friday night.

The New York member said from information given out in Mills' office, evening papers published stories that dry agents planned a roundup of night clubs "scattered around the Times square district and points east, north and south."

"It is the rule in the New York office to 'tip off' and to so spread the news. That is part of the policy to 'shake down' alleged violators and create a plausible excuse for finding no evidence when the make-believe, fake raid takes place," Laguardia said.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 14 (A.P.)—Leaders of the unionized bituminous coal industry, miners and operators, are here today for a conference to negotiate a new wage scale for the central competitive field.

Another lengthy chapter in the turbulent history of coal mining negotiations is forecast.

At one end of the gap, the miners held their convention, determined to obtain a new agreement based on "no wage reduction," while the operators proposed readjustment of wages on the basis of competition with non-union field.

The present wage agreement will expire March 31. A new agreement must be reached before April 1 to avoid a cessation of union labor in the mines.

SORRY NOW AS SHE BEGS TO SEE HUSBAND

"Life is too high a price to pay for domestic wrangling."

With her name on the danger list, but regretting her act and fighting to live, Mrs. Hannah A. Kenney, twenty, blonde and pretty, said this today as she lay on a cot at the City Hospital, hoping that her husband would come to her.

He is John Kenney, who lived with her at the Hotel Minerva, No. 214 Huntington avenue, but who did not come to see her, she declared, when she told him over the telephone that she could stand being alone no longer.

Early today she swallowed poison in the hotel, regretted her act, asked Clerk John Metz to call her a taxicab and then, writhing in agony, rode to the hospital.

"I am from Chicago," she explained, "but have been living in New York for some time. We have been in Boston three weeks—and I have been so alone.

"My husband is away all the time and I sit with my hands in my lap thinking, thinking, until sometimes it seems as if I should go insane.

"He was away again last night and when I could stand the loneliness no longer I telephoned him. He said he would be home in ten minutes. It was then midnight, and when 2 o'clock came and he was not home I had swallowed the tablets almost before I knew it.

CHURCH BACKS FILIPINOS

Manila, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Explaining the attitude of his church toward Philippine independence, Bishop Charles B. Mitchell, head of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the islands, today issued a statement declaring the Protestant missionaries were "in hearty sympathy with the Filipino people in their aspirations for national independence."

Bishop Mitchell also declared the missionaries "deplored the lack of co-operation on the part of some Filipino leaders with Governor-General Wood's administration, which has been wise and efficient."

"The Governor-General has been charged with depriving Filipinos of their rights under the organic law of the islands," the statement continues, "but there is no evidence that he does more than to rest on the rights and responsibilities place

MAKES ENEMY

As the battle of Monmouth, Washington rode up hastily as General Lee was ordering a retreat during a crucial moment. In his rage for what he deemed an ill-considered act the great commander rebuked Lee so severely that Lee became his mortal enemy.

SEA VICTORY

The American cause gained a great impetus when John Paul Jones, with his leaking old tub the Bon Homme Richard, captured the fine British frigate Serapis. The daring exploit of Captain Jones amazed King George of England, who would not believe early reports.

$250 WORTH 85 CENTS

Meanwhile, American currency was dropping almost to the zero point. Samuel Adams wrote that he had bought a suit of clothes and a hat for $2,000. Soldiers were paid $250 a month—in paper—but the purchasing power was only 85 cents, so there was much suffering.

GAIETY SURPRISES

For Washington, the years of 1778 and 1779 were the gloomiest of the war. He was astounded at the gaiety and luxury of Philadelphia. The people made merry, having no conception of the desperate military and financial situation that worried their leader.

FAVOR MEDICAL LIQUOR BILL

Washington, Feb. 14 (I.N.S.).—A revised medicinal liquor bill—providing for the manufacture of medicinal liquor in from two to six distilleries under strict government supervision—was favorably reported today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill bore little resemblance to the original plan advanced by General Lincoln C. Andrews, whereby an $80,000,000 semi-government corporation was to have been set up for the manufacture of medicinal liquor.

Vienna, Feb. 14 (I.N.S.).—Northern Yugo-Slavia suffered severe earthquakes early today. The centre of the earthquake was in Hetzegowina, where many persons are reported killed when roofs and walls fell. The quake was felt in Belgrade.

SHOW MILLER TELEGRAMS IN 'BRIBE' CASE

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Correspondent

New York, Feb. 14.—The government today resumed its efforts at the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial to get into evidence two telegrams concerning the approval of the return of $7,000,000 in war-seized property to German interests.

The charges against Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney-general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, are based on the $7,000,000 transaction for approval of which the defendants are alleged to have received part of a $391,000 bribe.

The first witness was Herman Rouse, an investigator in the comptroller-general's office, who identified the telegrams in question which were then marked for identification by United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, the prosecutor.

The telegrams, sent to Colonel Miller in 1921 by Fred Wilson, his secretary, are alleged to have dealt with the approval of the German claim.

Wilson, on the stand at the last session, testified that he did not know whether Miller ever received the telegrams, and they were not allowed to be entered in evidence.

Buckner therefore continued today his efforts to gain their admittance through additional testimony.

MAYNARD FOLK CHEER FIRST RELIEF LOAD

Maynard, Feb. 14.—Heaped high with food and clothing for the needy here, the Boston Evening American truck rolled into this town amid the blessings and cheers and thanks from those for whom the help was intended.

The Salvation Army of Marlboro answered the appeal of Superintendent of Schools Jerome P. Fogwell through the Boston Evening American, sending Captain May Warner and Dr. Marion McCormick to this town. They, too, brought food and clothing for the needy families.

They immediately co-operated with this paper and a relief station was opened in a Main street store.

THOSE WHO HELP.

Among those who so generously answered the Boston Evening American's call for help for Maynard children were the following:

Boston Boys' Clothing Company of Boston which contributed twenty new four-piece suits for boys; L. A. Herman, Bridgewater; Mrs. J. T. Hanson, Boston; W. A. Smith, Dorchester; John Krisboll, Boston; S. Strock, Boston; Mrs. Edward A. Shoman, Boston; Mr. Broidy, Chelsea; Mrs. A. Brennan, Boston; Albert Anderson, Somerville; Mrs. Alice Donehan, Brookline; Virginia Nokes, Boston; Julius Landelius, Brighton; Mrs. L. Sharrad, Springfield; W. P. Evans, Boston; Charles S. Newell, Pawtucket, R. I.; Mrs. Falkon, Dorchester.

SAYS MAYNARD PROSPEROUS

Another side of the picture was painted by T. J. O'Brien, a former resident of Maynard, who said:

"The largest and one of the most successful mills of the American Woolen Company is Maynard's chief source of income and under the skillful management of O. C. Droehsler, Maynard has for years enjoyed a prosperity which has made it the envy of sister towns.

"The recent change of season in the woolen industry has put the mill on short time, but careful supervision has resulted in an even distribution of available work.

"The funded debt of the town is one of the lowest as compared with valuation in our State, and it is said that Maynard possesses more automobiles per capita than any other town in Massachusetts. From the standpoint of prosperity Maynard will compare favorably with other textile communities."

TRAINED U. S. BOOTLEGS SMUGGLE ANTI-FASCISTS

Naples, Italy, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—American bootleggers, with training gained on New York's Rum Row, are believed by the police to have participated in an elaborate system for smuggling anti-Fascists from Italy to France.

Militiamen, holding up the French liner Theophile, captured 19 anti-Fascists, stowed away in a tiny cubbyhole. They also arrested Maria Evangelisti, a young woman described as the leader of the crowd.

FLU OUTBREAK HALTS U. S. SHIP

Forty-five members of the crew of the U. S. S. destroyer King at the Charlestown Navy Yard were stricken with influenza or heavy colds just as the vessel was getting ready to "shove off" for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Twenty-five were removed hastily to the Chelsea Naval Hospital, all suffering with "flu," and twenty more are down with heavy fevers aboard the ship.

The sailing, scheduled for early tomorrow, will probably be postponed. The entire crew is only 10[illegible] men and the sudden appearance of sickness has taken nearly half. The vessel has been undergoing a "tuning up" process and repairs for the trip south.

PUBLISHING PRODUCTS VALUED AT $2,200,000,000

Washington, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Printing and publishing as an industry in the United States turned out during 1925 products with a total value of $2,269,638,230.

This was an increase of 12.3 per cent. over the 1923 output, the Census Bureau statistics disclosed today. In 1925 there were 21,051 printing establishments in the United States, employing an average of 251,273 workers. Newspapers and periodicals accounted for nearly one-half of the total operations.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE IN GREENFIELD BLOCK

Greenfield, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Less than four hours after a lighted candle was found in a closet in the George A. Arms Block, in the heart of the business section, the place was found in flames, apparently having their origin in the same closet. Firemen battled the fire for nearly an hour and a loss of several thousand dollars was suffered by a number of firms having quarters in the building.

U. S. PUTS LOW FIGURE ON FORD STOCK

Washington, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Ford Motor Company stock was worth somewhere between $2,500 and $6,500 a share in the Spring of 1913 in the opinion of the government, which today began presenting its case against Senator James Couzens and other former minority stockholders for $30,000,000 additional taxes on the transfer of their stock to the Ford family in 1919.

DISAVOW VALUATION.

Disavowing the valuation of $9,489 a share arrived at by Daniel C. Roper, former commissioner of internal revenue, which it designates as "a decision of convenience," Alexander W. Gregg, solicitor of the Treasury Department, told the Board of Tax Appeals "Roper's action was illegal, without effect and not binding upon the government."

Gregg asserted the sale of the stock to Ford was not made upon the assumption the Roper valuation bound the government, and if the Treasury made an error in its original appraisal, which resulted in an underpayment of $30,000,000 in taxes, it was now the duty of the government to correct that error.

FORD'S IDEA OF VALUE

In disavowing the method adopted by Roper in arriving at his valuation, Gregg charged P. S. Talbert, made this estimate "after a hurried and cursory consideration of the question," and "ignored the well-considered advice of his associates."

The subsequent examinations conducted by the Treasury in 1921 and 1922, which uniformly upheld the Roper valuations, and which have been cited by the petitioners, were designed by Gregg as having been equally cursory.

He announced the government will prove Henry Ford, in 1917, placed a value of $6,100 a share on the stock.

most severe and loyal public service, Hippocrates realized the danger of his profession. He said: "I hold it to be physicianly to abstain from treating those who are overwhelmed by disease," meaning those absolutely incurable.

IN ANCIENT days the doctor's work was considered by the ignorant a work of magic, and failure might have caused resentment and murder. That Brooklyn tragedy proves the wisdom of Hippocrates' ruling. Getting little thanks or pay when they succeeded, risking defamation or even death when they fail, you need not envy physicians their work.

JOHN WOOLMAN reported to a religious sect of old-fashioned views—VERY fundamentalist—that an evil spirit had taken possession of his wife, thirty-five years old. That seemed easy to the two reverend gentlemen that took the evil spirit in hand.

They knew he had to eat or get out, so they gave the woman no food for five days, and kept her tied down to her bed for three days. Prayers were said continuously, and probably that devil would soon have been discouraged.

BUT MODERNIST business men heard about it, released the woman, called in regular doctors and the religious demonstration was spoiled.

If a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, how strong is the chain of human intelligence?

CHAUNCEY DEPEW, aged ninety-three, rebukes the young eighty-year-old Edison for saying, if he ever said it, "The word of 'God' has no meaning for me."

Depew said in his private car on the way to Florida, "I am more firmly anchored to the Bible than ever before, and believe implicitly in its teachings and the God it portrays."

Edison will envy that frame of mind and ask, perhaps, "Which God of the Bible, Old Testament or New?" The God that ordered his chosen people to kill all, including women and children, and spare not, is different, to mortal understanding, from the God that warned against hurting the little ones. Fortunate are they, Mr. Edison will admit it, possessing a faith that makes reasoning unnecessary.

THE INNOCENT ancients thought the sky was a substantial ceiling, not far above our heads. Heaven was there. Hell below our feet, the angels took us up, the Devil dragged us down, our business was to go in the right direction.

Astronomy has damaged that theory, and we know that above your head, or below your feet, is a straight line (with apologies to Einstein). You can travel a distance equal to 1,000,000 light years, the distance light could travel at 186,000 miles a second in 1,000,000 years and find only other stars, planets and such things. No Heaven, no Hell.

NOW SCIENCE finds that there is a sort of ceiling, only 100 miles above us. It is called "a radio ceiling," and Carnegie Institute scientists prove that the strange ceiling, a layer in the atmosphere "bends radio waves back to earth."

There is the power of gravitation that pulls solid matter back to earth. Is there a power that draws back electric substance, whatever it may be?

NEWSPAPER, pulpit and stage are mirrors, each reflecting a certain part of the public. If you have an indecent theatre, or newspaper, or a superstitious pulpit, blame the public.

New York police closed certain theatres, producing shameful plays. Court injunctions protected the plays, and one of the worst, on the point of failure before the welcome advertising came, actually had to hire a bigger building.

The people are what they are, not what anybody makes them. As they gradually change, church, theatre, newspapers and laws change with them.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

GIRLS IN BOYS' CLOTHES AT HARVARD RIOT

Attired in the tuxedoes of their Harvard boy friends, a number of venturesome girls crashed the gate and attended the stag party of arvard students which culminated with a riot in arvard square and the arrest of thirty-eight alleged rioters.

This belated information came today when certain persons connected with the investigation on behalf of the college authorities, admitted that one phase of the investigation pointed to the fact that at least one girl is known and that she is remaining in the background in fear that her companion will face expulsion if his name is revealed.

The particular damsel who invaded the "stag party," had a boyish bob and she concealed it by wearing her boy friend's racoon coat during the acts that preceded the egg throwing episode that caused the managment of the theatre where the party was held, to drop the curtain and request the students to depart.

PROTECT STUDENTS.

A committee of students, headed by J. R. Carter, '29, of Newton, was formed today for "the protection of students against the illegal abuse by the police." Carter said that the committee had engaged Warner V. Taylor of the law firm of Taylor and Loker, to act as counsel for the committee in efforts to gather evidence to present in court when the students are called for trial on Friday.

Harvard's charge that Cambridge police were "unnecessarily brutal" during Saturday's riot in Harvard square is a futile attempt to alibi the mob conduct of students, declared Mayor Edward W. Quinn in commenting today on an editorial in the Harvard Crimson.

"The police created a riot before quelling it," reads the editorial.

"Harvard is alibing," declared Mayor Quinn. "It is a natural thing that for Harvard to come to the defense of its students by saying the police were unwarranted and unnecessarily brutal in putting a stop to a riot.

SAYS POLICE STARTED RIOT.

"The matter is now before the courts for decision. The case will be presented Friday and until then I have nothing further to say. The court may be relied upon to decide who was right."

But the police are more interested in unearthing the students who showered them with lemons as an aftermath to the big riot of the day before.

The patrolmen were targets for a barrage of lemons from the windows of various dormitories, and nobody could be arrested as every student was studiously bent over his books when the irate police entered the various halls.

The Crimson editorial goes on to say:

"On the basis of the evidence printed elsewhere in this paper, evidence which is supported by the unanimous opinion of students who were present at the time of the so-called riot Friday night, two points become very clear." In the first place, there was no riot until wagon loads of police charged the crowd with drawn nightsticks in answer to a summons for aid, not a riot call. The police, in other words, created a riot before quelling it.

FLAYS POLICE METHODS.

"In the second place, even had there been a riot the choice of methods made by the police was bad. There is a quite obvious distinction between a few hundred students and a howling mob bent on destruction. The police used methods applicable to the latter.

"The evidence so far produced therefore leads to the conclusion that the action of the police Friday night was both unwarranted and unnecessarily brutal. Until the hearing on Friday, when full evidence from the police as well as the students is produced no further comment is possible."

MARTHA LEE TALKS

Tasty Salad Peps Up Jaded Winter Appetites

Did you ever meet a really famous cook, and learn to know her well? If you did, you probably discovered that the only difference between the common garden variety of cookery and extra good cookery is just a little more flavor, just a little more attractiveness.

Here's a recipe that came to me from one of the extra good cooks of my acquaintance, a Winter fruit salad that is the delicious combination of grape fruit, bananas, coconut and marshmallows.

Winter Fruit Salad: 2 cups grapefruit pulp, 2 sliced bananas, ½ cup shredded cocoanut, 2 tbsp. sugar, 25 marshmallows, lettuce, ½ cup whipped cream or mayonnaise. Free sections of grapefruit from membrane, halve marshmallows, and mix with bananas. Arrange on lettuce and sprinkle with sugar and cocoanut. Chill and serve with whipped cream or mayonnaise.

This is equally appropriate for a dessert or luncheon salad.

The authoress of its being, tells me she depends much on marshmallows for getting extra goodness into her dishes. With them, she says, dishes ordinarily commonplace become unusual and tempting. Cakes, pies, puddings, salads and soups, all take on new deliciousness. And marshmallows are such safe, pure sweets for children as well as for cookery uses. Perhaps you would like me to send you a book of delicious recipes built around these wholesome confections?

The Best Cooks Use Aluminum

The chefs of many world-famous hotels preside over all-aluminum kitchens. They cook everything in aluminum—for they have found that aluminum cooks everything well.

Some of these experts praise the greater durability and economy of aluminum utensils. Others speak of the ease with which this ware is kept clean and sanitary. Still others call attention to its safety for all kinds of cooking.

Hospitals, too, and steamship lines, and railroads, and packers of food products are using aluminum more and more. And housewives innumerable, unwilling that the large user should monopolize such efficiency and economy, have wisely agreed in adopting aluminum ware as the ideal foundation equipment for the modern home kitchen. Have you noticed the complete equipment of aluminum in the Martha Lee kitchen? It's our pride and joy.

A busy day in the Martha Lee kitchen.

New Cereal Prolongs Morning Nap

Are you depriving your family of the benefit of a piping hot breakfast cereal because you're thinking that its preparation will clip a half hour off that morning nap?

If you are, maybe it's because you aren't familiar with the new partly cooked oatmeal which requires only three to five minutes to complete its thorough preparation.

These oats are tender and entirely free from the flouriness that cooks into a paste, and of course we all know that oats are rich in vitamines and minerals as well as tissue-building protein. These quick-cooked oats make an ideal food for babies and a body-builder for growing children. You'll enjoy their rich, sweet flavor, not to mention the time saved in their preparation. They are a steady on the Lee breakfast table, per orders of the family N. B.

Nature's Relish Aids Appetite and Digestion

What is more pleasing for a supper combination than cold cuts of meat with delicious cranberry sauce to give zest to appetite and aid to digestion?

Cranberries are Nature's own relish and perfect cranberry sauce can now be purchased ready prepared in enamel-lined cans or made from the fresh fruit in ten minutes thusly:

CRANBERRY SAUCE

Boil two cups of sugar and two cups of boiling water together for five minutes. Skin and add four cups of cranberries. Boil without stirring for five minutes or until all the skins are broken. Remove from the fire when the popping stops.

Cranberry sauce is the one touch needed to give balance to the diet and to aid the digestion of the heavier, richer foods. Cranberries are rich in iron, lime and carbohydrates, the vital elements that aid in rebuilding nerves and building up the system.

And they are one of the easiest fruits to prepare, too—no coring, no peeling, no waste.

Just a suggestion, though, always cook cranberries in enamel, porcelain-lined or aluminum vessels.

SUNSHINE CUSTARD

An unusually wholesome as well as delicious dessert for the little folks is the Sunshine Graham Cracker custard. As a special treat, it might be served with a fluffy marshmallow sauce, but it's mighty good with just a little milk and sugar.

SUNSHINE GRAHAM CRACKER CUSTARD

Beat together until light three eggs, one-third cupful of sugar and one-sixth teaspoon of salt. Pour over them, slowly, three cupfuls of scalded milk, flavor with one-half teaspoon of vanilla and turn into a buttered baking dish. Cover with lightly buttered Sunshine Graham Crackers. It may be necessary to cut some of these into halves in order to make them fit in the dish.) Put the custard into a pan containing hot water and bake in a slow oven—about 325 to 350 degrees F.—until firm and set.

To stop a leak in a gas pipe or joint temporarily, moisten common yellow soap and press tightly over leak.

Tasty Meat Substitutes From Cheese

Appetizing meals, each one different from last week's or the week before, will mark you as a clever modern housewife.

And cheese with its special savor and creaminess will help you to distinction and variety to your menus.

For instance, have you ever treated your family to cheese croquettes in place of meat? The ingredients are simple, but this mellow cheese flavor makes a dish to delight an epicure, especially served with mashed potatoes, baked tomatoes, a crisp salad, lemon snow pudding and a fragrant cup of coffee.

Tomato cheese toast, golden melted cheese on crisp toast crowned with a rich tomato sauce is another enticing meat substitute served with cole slaw, popovers with honey and tea.

Both these recipes are in the cheese recipe book which you know is free to all on request.

To remove chocolate or cocoa stains from table linen, soak overnight in cold water, turn boiling water through them and wash.

Healthful Honey Hints For Housewives

I'm harping on honey again today, that pure sweet flower nectar so beneficial to the system. Honey, you know, supplies the body with needed sweets in a concentrated form easily assimilated. Moreover, honey does not cause teeth to decay and is a real help to the healthy growth of young bodies. And it's non-fattening, you know—the answer to the candy craving of the Would-be-thin.

Honey is as closely related to biscuits and hot rolls as ham is to eggs. It makes an ideal refreshment served with light cakes or wafers or hot rolls at an afternoon tea or card party and makes a light, delicious and satisfying between-time bite on toast or crackers. There'll be no dark brown taste in your mouth the morning after.

Honey makes good waffles and griddle cakes better. And many folks eat it on corn bread as a dessert. Cakes, cookies and other baked foods will stay fresh and moist for months and improve in flavor with their age if made with honey.

Here's a honey loaf cake that will keep in perfect condition for over a year.

HONEY LOAF CAKE

Sift together two and one-half cups of flour with one teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon each of ground ginger and cloves, a dash of white pepper, and one-half teaspoon of salt. Stir in one-half cupful of fine granulated sugar, and add these dry ingredients to the following wetting: Bea one egg very light, dissolve one-fourth teaspoon of soda in one tablespoon of hot water, stir this into three-fourths cup of honey, and mix with the beaten egg. When the batter is smooth, add one-half cup each of chopped seeded raisins and pecan nut meats. Grease and then flour a tube cake pan, or two loaf pans, and fill to the depth of one and one-half inches with the batter. Bake in a moderate oven until done. This cake will be very hard when cool, and will not be good to use for from one to two months. It will then be delicious, and will keep indefinitely.

Can't I have a mighty interesting book of menus and recipes sent to you? They were prepared by Mary D. Chambers of the American Cookery Magazine and each recipe has been carefully tested.

"Say! Mother, I didn't know Just chops could taste so good!"

SAME old pork chops for dinner. Sonny "turns up his nose" as he takes his seat at the table. But after the first few mouthfuls, a look of pleased surprise flashes over his face.

"Say! Mother, I didn't know just chops could be so good," he exclaims. And Daddy echoes his remark.

The secret? Mother seasoned the chops, before cooking, with Gulden's Mustard. She spread both sides with a generous layer of Gulden's, and then placed on the fire. As they cooked, the millions of atoms of flavor spread throughout the chops, adding new zest and fresh appeal.

This magic seasoning, when used in cooking, works wonders with all kinds of meats, vegetables, sauces and gravies. Gulden's is a delightful blending of the world's finest mustard seeds with delicate spices. It is the one complete seasoner for cooking, all ready to use. Only in Gulden's do you get that perfect combination of rich, mellow spices with the lively little mustard seed. It's zestful but not harsh or biting.

Contrary to custom, it was inaugurated first and elected afterwards—elected by millions of people as the most splendid bit of food imaginable.

It is a cream-filled chocolate wafer sandwich—you know it well—called Sunshine Hydrox, and it was originated nearly twenty years ago by our master bakers.

Hydrox Biscuits seem to have just the proper balance between sweet stuff and food to make most people want them. No accident either—they were deliberately planned by Sunshine Bakers to fill just that need. Their comradeship with ice cream, hot and cold drinks, is becoming household tradition.

DOLLARS FOR SOAP THOUGHTS

I hope you've all put down in your memory books and on your calendar that February 23 is the date you'll find in this paper a full page of particulars of a soap contest in which 29 cash prizes will be awarded.

You're not going to need a single ounce of literary skill to write a prize-winning letter. All that is necessary is a simple Plain Jane letter telling of your clothes-washing and dishwashing methods. Just the sort of a letter you'd write to Aunt Nell or Cousin Kate. No strings or catches of any kind attached to the twenty-nine cash prizes which will be awarded for the best letters.

Between now and February 23 it certainly will pay you to think over the difference between your clotheswashing and dishwashing methods and Grandmother's. Remember how red and puffy and parboiled Grandmother's hands always looked on washday? Nowadays we have suds in a second, clothes are soaked clean instead of scrubbed clean and dishwashing is made just one-third shorter.

SPICE CUP CAKES

These are excellent served hot with whipped cream or cold as cakes for dessert.

Sift one cup and two tablespoons of bread flour with one teaspoon of soda, one-half teaspoon each of ginger, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon and one-eighth teaspoon of salt. Mix one-third cup of butter with one-half cup of flour. Add one well-beaten egg, one-third cup of molasses, then the spiced flour and last of all, slowly a half cup of hot water. Beat well, half fill buttered and floured muffin pans and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

CASSEROLE OF LAMB, GREEK STYLE

Order four pounds of the thick part of a forequarter of lamb cut in pieces for serving. Sprinkle each piece with pepper and Worcester salt. Try out in an iron frying pan pieces of fat cut from the meat. Then add the seasoned meat and fry until nicely browned. Remove to a casserole, or lacking one, to a large baking dish. Peel and slice an onion and fry in the pan until well-browned, adding it to the meat, together with two or three carrots washed, scraped, and cut in pieces the size of a walnut, one teaspoonful each of Slade's thyme and marjoram, and a bit of bay leaf. Pour two cups of boiling water into the frying pan, scraping off all the brown particles adhering to the pan, and then pour over the meat. Cover tightly and cook in a moderate oven until tender. Remove as much fat as possible, thicken gravy with flour made smooth with a little cold water, and cook ten or fifteen minutes longer. Serve from casserole.

MOTHER HUBBARD MACAROONS.

Every child has a sweet tooth and it's often a real problem for a conscientious mother to satisfy the natural longing without detriment to delicate little tummies. Macaroons are universal favorites and made by this recipe, they are quite as good as the most elaborate candy and far more healthful for little folks.

1½ cups sugar
½ cup Ralston
2 eggs
⅙ cup nuts
1 teaspoon baking powder
1½ cups coconut
½ cup milk
⅓ cup coconut
1 cup whole wheat flour
Pinch of Worcester salt

Mix all ingredients and drop from teaspoon on greased tins. Allow room for spreading. Bake in quick oven.

BREADED PORK CHOPS WITH ONION SAUCE

Wipe chops and sprinkle pepper and Worcester salt. Dip in flour, beaten egg, sifted soft bread crumbs and place in a buttered baking pan. Bake one and one-half hours or until tender, and baste during the cooking.

ONION SAUCE. Peel and slice twelve onions and cook in boiling, salted water until soft. Drain well and rub through a sieve. There should be one cup. Add this puree to a white sauce made by melting two tablespoonfuls of butter, adding three tablespoonfuls of flour and one cup of milk. Add salt, white pepper and cayenne to taste.

Frozen Dainties Are Pereniially Popular

Ever since the Martha Lee Kitchen at 93 Summer street opened last October, we have been checking up on people's personal preferences and we've discovered that while we may get an occasional "No, thank you" for a proffered patty, sandwich or cakelet, the ayes have it unanimously when it comes to ice cream.

That's why it's an unwritten law in the Martha Lee Kitchen that two trayfuls of some kind of frozen dessert shall be made before the rest of the day's operations are begun.

If you're not yet the proud possessor of an electric refrigerator, these chilled desserts can be packed in a tightly covered mold and set away in a mixture of ice and salt for several hours.

The Tutti Frutti illustrated in today's strip of pictures is extremely easy to make—and once made, you may be sure that your family will demand it over and over again.

TUTTI FRUTTI.

Scald 1-3 cup milk and add ¼ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cornstarch, mixed together. Cook until thick. Add ½ teaspoon gelatine which has been dissolved in 1 teaspoon cold water and 4 tablespoons Maraschino cherry juice. Then put in refrigerator until cool. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, ⅙ cup nuts, ⅙ cup chopped Maraschino cherries and ¼ pint of cream, whipped. Place it in electric refrigerator or mold packed in ice and salt, allowing 1 cup of salt to 2 cups chopped ice.

Perhaps you would like me to send you a recipe book of other frozen desserts?

CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE

Cream one-half cup of butter, add gradually one cup of sugar, and beat well, then add one egg well beaten and one cup of milk in which is dissolved one-half teamspoonful of soda. Melt three spuares of chocolate over hot water and add to first mixture, then add one and five-eighths cups of pastry flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon of salt. Add one-half teaspon of vanilla extract. Beat vigorously, pour into two layer-cake tins, and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Cover the top of each layer when still a bit warm with marshmallows cut in thirds crosswise leave spaces between marshmallows when placing them so that the cake may cut easily. Over the marshmallows spread Fudge Frosting made as follows:

FUDGE FROSTING: Melt in a good-sized saucepan, over hot water, four squares of chocolate, and gradually stir in sifted confectioner's sugar until mixture needs thinning. Add a small amount of warm milk, one or two tablespoons, and beat hard. Keep on adding alternately sugar and milk until ready to spread. It will require about two and one-half cups of sugar and about one-third cup of milk. Flavor with vanilla. If frosting becomes too thick to spread smoothly, instead of adding more milk, set saucepan over hot water or in a warm oven, until the mixture melts a little; this results in a more glossy frosting. Milk and sugar should be added in small quantities and the whole beaten hard.

Ward Off Cold Signals With Lemons

A sneeze, a chill or a cough from the little folks are danger signs to heed.

Thousands of mothers still find the good old-fashioned remedy of hot lemonade the most effective way to end a cold. First a hot bath, then the hot lemonade sweetened with honey, then bundle your little one in bed and pin the covers down so that turning over won't admit the chilling air. Ten chances to one, the cold signals have vanished by next morning. There's no doubt that this hot lemonade treatment has saved days, even weeks, of sickness and worry.

Colds you see, are a sign of acidity and lemons, although known as an acid fruit, have an alkaline reaction in the blood and offset body acidity.

It's a pretty safe bet to keep lemons—the California kind are especially good—always on hand. They've scores of uses round the kitchen, too, you know.

Sour Cream Filling. Boil 1 cup dark brown sugar, and 1 cup sour cream till it forms ball in cold water. Cool and beat 'til it holds its shape. Add 1 cup chopped nuts and ½ tsp. orange or lemon extract.

"Number Six" Club to Hold Dance at Memorial Drive Clubhouse on Febraury 25

SMALL, SMART AND IMMENSELY INTERESTING IN THE scheme of things social, just as the season wanes, is the dance of the Number Six Club, arranged for the evening of February 25, at the Clubhouse in Memorial Drive. Coveted, indeed, is a card of invitation to this quite swagger affair, and every Boston belle finding the pasteboard bit in her morning's mail counts herself honored above her mates. For the "Number Six" is an aggregation of brilliant young men, hailing from the globe's four quarters, who are, with the utmost strenuousness, pursuing their degrees at Technology. And as every student at the famous Institute knows right well, it's the sort of strenuousness that permits few frivolities. So the annual "Number Six" Club dance is truly an occasion.

THIS SEASON IT IS YOUNG MR. PHILIP BOURNE of Mount Vernon street, son of the Frank Bournes who shine in Boston's artistic-social set, who rules Number Six dance destinies. And of course there's a set of prominent Boston women to do the patroness honors. Mrs. Bourne is one. Mrs. George Swinnerton Parker is another, Mrs. Horace Morison, another. Also Mrs. Malcolm Seymour and Miss Grace Nichols. Mrs. Frederick Page Royce lends her name to the affair, if not her actual presence, as she and Mr. Royce have taken their two pretty daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Evelyn, off on a Mediterranean cruise. The patronesses have hit on the happy thought of entertaining en masse, and combine as hostesses for an ushers' dinner, wherewith to usher in the dance with utmost gayety and eclat.

"ELEO" SEARS, INDEFATIGABLE FOLLOWER of sports for the sheer love of them, will be rooting for Harvard next Saturday at the Arena, as Crimson and Blue clash on the shining ice for hockey honors. In fact, when the puck is flipped into play there'll be a more than ordinarily brilliant crowd in the stands, for the smart set is always intensely interested in whatever concerns their favorite sons and their fortunes at sport. Miss Sears is but one of the many box holders whose parties will ring the rink around. Mr. Allan Hubbard has a party. The Hugh Scott family of Wellesley will be out to see the son, Richard Scott, play centre. "Nate" Hamlen, son of the Paul Hamlens, also wears the Crimson and adds enormously to Harvard's ice prestige.

I DARE SAY, IF BOSTON SOCIETY ever should boast a woman's hockey team, the accomplished Miss Sears could herself fill very acceptably the position of rover, for Boston's premiere bachelor sportswoman is as versatile as she is popular. She skates with the same finesse with which she rides, or wields the tennis racquet, or the golf club. An all around sportswoman, she. And now she adds figure skating to the list. At the Arena during Skating Club sessions Miss Sears devotes whole-hearted attention and several strenuous hours to this graceful and spirited art and is entirely mistress of the shining skates.

IN FACT, THE SKATING CLUB contains any number of strenuous souls whose one delight appears to be unending practice at figure skating. Miss Mary Curtis, in swirling black velvet skirts and velvet toque, a la Russe, is a lively ice performer, with positive mastery of the intricate curves and spirals. Mrs. Dudley Howe is another matron often seen at the rink. Also Mrs. Francis H. Appleton, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Weld. As to that youthful whirlwind on skates, Miss Maribel Vinson, she and her skating partner, young Mr. Thornton Coolidge, are well into the championship class, and may essay the Toronto contest as a team of two. But it really is the very young set, doing their steps so earnestly, that inspire one to enthusiasm.

LITTLE MISS PHYLLIS HOWE and little Miss Louise Stevens, in their gay green sweaters and caps make a pretty picture on the ice. Miss Hope Blanchard and Miss Joanna Palfrey (this latter miss comes of the accomplished John Palfrey family that plays such excellent tennis) can be classed as coming champions, so expert are they in the fancy figures. Likewise Miss Catherine Richardson and Miss Molly Weed, Miss Elizabeth Lloyd, Miss Beverly Jones, Miss Elizabeth Ware, Miss Frances Proctor, Miss Babette Morison and her small sister, little Mary Morison. They each can skim over the shining Arena ice like so many birds. They make Skating Club sessions vastly amusing and interesting, to the spectator.

TEA AT MRS. GEORGE HAWLEY'S in Chestnut street, followed by a recital by Albert Snow on Mrs. Hawley's splendid residence organ, in compliment to the wives of various maritime magnates now in town, gave a very interesting variation to the Saturday program of these same visitors. For them the tea was sandwiched in between sightseeing jaunts and other special entertainment, and for Mrs. Hawley it was an interlude in some two weeks of almost constant grand opera attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Hawley are opera sponsors as well as season subscribers, and follow the stay of the Chicago company with utmost enthusiasm.

MISS EDITH MARGARET SMAILL reading Drummond's Habitant Poems of Old Quebec and Miss Juliette Gauthier singing French-Canadian folk songs, is the pleasurable prospect tomorrow evening in Steinert Hall of which many Bostonians, of the social-literary-musical circles given to such affairs will avail themselves, under interesting patronage. Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. Vittorio Orlandi, Mrs. John Lavalle, Mrs. Nathan Thayer, Mrs. Clarence Ransom Edwards, Mrs. Cyrus Dallin and Mrs. William Morton Wheeler are in the list and Miss Smaill comes with an adventurous background of performances ranging through various strata of society, from appearances before crowned heads and Lords and Ladies of the Realm, to Rocky Mountain mining camps. Likewise Miss Gauthier brings an interesting atmosphere, gained by deep study of the Canadian songs and lore.

SEE VICTORY ON FARM AID BILL IN FINAL VOTE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Correspondent.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Claiming enough pledged votes in the House to insure passage of the $250,000,000 McNary-Haugen Farm Relief Bill, farm bloc leaders today redoubled their efforts to roll up an impressive majority in the hope of convincing President Coolidge that there is an overwhelming demand in the country for the measure.

A test vote probably will be taken tomorrow.

The bill admittedly cannot hurdle an executive veto before the end of the 69th Congress, despite the comfortable majority which farm bloc leaders revealed in the Senate vote and claim in the House. There apparently is little demand among the farm bloc members for an extra session if the bill fails to become a law.

Opponents of the measure continued to bask in their conviction that Mr. Coolidge will make short work of the bill through a veto. Backers of the bill likewise continued doggedly to cling to the hope of Executive approval, pointing out that they have met all of the objections that Mr. Coolidge has raised in the past to this class of legislation.

They assert that price-fixing phases have been removed, that a government subsidy is specifically avoided and that it will promote co-operative marketing, which the President is pledged to aid.

'Morals Not Involved' in Fight Over Liquor

What do prominent members of the Protestant clergy in the United States think of prohibition and the Volstead act?

Injected into the political campaign of 1928 by President Butler of Columbia, the prohibition question, long a topic of almost universal discussion, has now become most acute and timely.

Because of the tremendous public interest leaders in the Protestant churches throughout the country have been asked for their opinions.

Three articles, giving various views, have already been published. Here is the fourth:

By REV. GEO. CRAIG STEWART,
Rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church of Evanston.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 14.—I do not at all uphold prohibition laws or countenance dry tenets on moral and catholic grounds.

I do not see that the question of morals is involved at all by the temperate use of alcoholic beverages. Our holy religion gives us great freedom in such matters and urges upon us temperance in meats and drinks, but not abstinence from them, unless it be during periods of fasting prescribed by the church.

My position, in a word, is this: The church itself urges upon all its members obedience to constituted secular authority. We are to "fear God and honor the king." We are "to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's. We are to be good citizens. We are to honor and obey the civil authority."

LAW MAY BE "MISTAKE."

Now it may have been a mistake to pass so stringent a prohibition law. The interpretation of the constitutional amendment by the Volstead act may have been too drastic. I have no complaint to make against those men who believe that both the amendment and the enacting law are provocative of drunkenness, lawbreaking and crime.

And I have no quarrel with those who seek by proper legal measures to secure a modification of the act, or even a repeal of the constitutional amendment. But I cannot see the slightest ground for contemptuous disregard of the laws of the United States.

I cannot for the life of me see how a good citizen, to say nothing of a good Christian, can with one hand be paying money to the government through his taxes to enforce the prohibition law, and with the other hand be paying out money to criminal bootleggers to break it.

NOT TYRANNOUS ACT

One may speak of personal rights and the infringement upon them. But organized society invades personal rights and demands surrender by the individual of certain personal liberties for the good of the whole.

It is very late in the day to speak of personal rights when we are living in a society which limits our personal freedom on every hand in order that we may live together in safety and comfort.

The other day while I was in Baltimore a woman said to me—"How do you reconcile your position with our Lord's presence in Galilee and his changing the water into wine?" My reply was this—"Had there been a law in Galilee which prohibited wine, can you imagine him changing the water into wine?"

To be sure if the principle involved were one of high moral and spiritual import, if the law on prohibition were a clear invasion of one's duty to God and to his neighbor, then I hope that I should be one of those who would go to jail, as minorities have the right to do when they refuse to obey a tyrannous law even though it be passed by a majority.

WILL OF MAJORITY

It all goes back to this: Is the omendment to the Constitution an expression of the will of the majority of the American people? If it is, then it must be obeyed, or our laws amount to nothing. If it is not, then let the American people say so.

And you will note that neither of the political parties dares to put a wet plank in its platform because the political leaders know that the American people as a whole propose to make America dry.

TRAIN CONTROL RECOMMENDED

Washington, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Investigation into the causes of a rear-end collision between two sections of the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited at Savannah, N. Y., Jan. 9, induced the Interstate Commerce Commission's safety bureau today to repeat a recommendation for installation of automatic train control device on the road.

The bureau found that Engineer Scoville, who piloted the train which ran into the standing first section of the Limited, and who was the only man killed, had run past caution and stop signals. Fifty-four persons were injured.

On the night of the wreck there were eight sections eastbound of the Twentieth Century Limited, running at short distances from each other, the safety bureau said, and the 70-mile per hour speed limit which the railroad has laid down was being considerably exceeded. The train sheet indicated that at times the limited trains were traveling more than 100 miles per hour, but these figues were declared to be incorrect.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR KILLING DOCTOR

New York, Feb. 14 (I.N.S.).—"The doctor kill my sick son with poison needle. He jab him in back. I stick him with knife. That's all." Such was the explanation given today by Frank Caruso, Brooklyn plasterer, for the killing of Dr. Casper S. Pendola. Dr. Pendola had worked night and day to save the life of little Joseph Caruso, and had resorted to an injecction of antitoxin as a last deperate effort.

The grief-stricken father was held without bail today on a murder charge. He stubbornly contended Dr. Pendola killed his son with a "jab in back," and would not believe the needle was used in an effort to save the boy's life.

U. S. ADVISER TO CHINA DIES ON HONEYMOON

Bangor, Me., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Colonel Charles D Jameson, who for many years occupied a confidential position with the Chinese government as engineering adviser, died in Sarasota, Fla., yesterday from pneumonia, according to word received here today. Colonel Jameson was on his honeymoon having been married in New York January 31, to Miss Margaret French of this city, daughter of Mrs. Mary French of Washington.

The funeral will be in Stillwater, where he was born, the son of General Charles Jameson, seventy-one years ago.

DEAF MUTE HELD FOR ATTACKING 3 DRACUT GIRLS

Dracut, Feb. 14.—With the arrest of Anthony Zouras, 24, of Hildreth street, charged with attack on three girls, the police believe they have caught the man who has been terrorizing girls in this town.

The three girls he is charged with attacking are Anna Gregorie, 18, Anna Bromil 16, and Annie S. Migglisk, 13. The attack took place yesterday in broad daylinght as the girls were walking along the street. The girls fled.

Safe Is Robbed

Marlboro, Feb. 14—The safe of the Worcester Buick Company on East Main street was robbed of between $700 and $900 by thugs who gained an entrance to the building by breaking a rear window.

HUNT MAN WHO STARTED RIOT IN MONTREAL SHOW

Montreal, Feb. 14 (I.N.S.).—Police are investigating in an effort to identify the person who started a near panic in the Theatre Francais by shouting "fire." More than 1,800 persons were in the building, and only prompt action of attendants in opening all exits and assuring the crowd there was no danger averted a disaster. After firemen examined the building the audience was readmitted.

BOOTLEG MILK FOR HUB! COOLIDGE WARNED

Washington, Feb. 14 (A.P.)—Milk bootlegging, contrasted with which liquor bootlegging is trivial, would be [illegible] in New York State and New England, generally, by the [illegible] of the Lenroot-Taber milk bill, President Coolidge was told today by Dr. Louis I. Harris, milk commissioner of New York City.

The bill would deprive New York City of the 190,000 quarts of milk which daily come from Canada, he said, and would also deprive Boston of milk from the same source.

The conflict between the two cities over their milk supply would become much worse in the opinion of Harris, and this would bring about bootlegging of milk from unregulated and uncertified milk sources.

IDENTIFY MAN DYING OF MYSTERY INJURY

Dying at City Hospital, a man injured in some unknown manner was identified today after several hours of investigation as Michael Smith of Salem street, North End.

He was taken to the hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, after he complained to a friend on whom he called of being sick. The friend Frank Shutz of Medford court, South End, knew him only by a nickname, Felix.

TWO HUNDRED ALIENS ADMITTED AS CITIZENS

"Vote and votel ntelligently" was an admonition given to more than 200 applicants in Federal Court today by Judge James A. Lowell during the inauguration here of a new departure in admitting aliens to U. S. citizenship.

For the first time in this district the appearance of witnesses with the alien at the ceremony of naturalization was abolished, the entire group of qualified candidates being sworn in en masse by Judge Lowell.

RADIO BILL IS CALLED DARING "STEAL"

The present radio bill before the Congress of the United States is termed as "the most outrageous injustice and the biggest, most daring steal known to history," by a prominent Boston writer, lecturer and advertising man whose name is withheld.

He alleges that the present chaotic situation on the air is due solely to conditions prepared, fostered, and maintained by a group of moneyed men whose endeavor is to completely control and monopolize the radio broadcasting industry of the country.

Moreover, this Boston radio man emphatically claims and warns that if the present Congressional bill is passed, there will be saddled on the people a czar-like, autocratic control of radio from which there will be no escape or possibility of equality and justice.

START OF MONOPOLY.

About a year ago, it is alleged that the Department of Commerce "enjoyed a czar-like control over broadcasting licenses and hence were a public nuisance."

"Last April one of the most creditable and beneficent court decisions in the history of American jurisprudence was made by the Federal Court of Illinois, declaring that the use of infinite space for communication and enjoyment was an inherent right of the people," says the Boston man. "That gave some freedom from the radio czars and the people have been heartily enjoying that liberty since, notwithstanding the gross exaggerations published, and dozens of lies invented and stated in preparation for the impending Congressional radio legislation.

"The men organized to monopolize all broadcast advertising aiming to have a virtually complete monopoly of all paid advertising, thus being able to charge $1,000 an hour or more, on an overhead cost of perhaps $15, are said to have devised a plan of propaganda, popular agitation and Congressional legislation as the best way for them to attain arbitrary and autocratic monopoly of all radio advertising facilities."

In view of the fact that the radio situation now on the air is causing much confusion, the following reasons have been positively declared to be the real reasons why such conditions exist:

"Certain stations were selected at strategetic points by the syndicate trying for an absolute monopoly, and these stations were caused to change their wave-length, with a cunning excuse if possible, so that some receiving interference must be caused to all having inferior or not extremely selective receiving sets.

"If these stations do not wish to cause trouble they can at any time change back to their original wave-length; also there have been and are other wave lengths they could take freely, as is proved by the number of wave-lengths recently given out and accepted, besides also a number of abandoned station wave-lengths, such as Fall River.

"These radio difficulties are all instigated by men who intend to secure confiscatory, Congressional legislation.

"The pending Congressional radio bill is the most outrageous injustice and the biggest, most daring steal, known to history.

RADIO COMMISSION FOR LIFE.

"Please consider seriously what is proposed. A commission of five soft-snap grafters, as we believe 'cats-paws' and tools of would-be broadcast monopolists, are to be given more power to abuse, steal, confiscate business by killing it, make outrageous rules, and wreck men and property, than the czar could have wanted.

"This oppressive commission is to be paid for from PUBLIC FUNDS for ruinous dictation to all but a very few men. It must necessarily be composed of men who are willing to go in for such a stunt.

"Heaven help the people, for it is to be permanent for life—no matter what they do! Please tell us, how can men having a station business established, or large investments in broadcasting mechanism factories, or a special writer's business built up, get rid of this coming curse upon the people?

WORSE OFF THAN ITALIANS.

"Many manufacturers and station owners, also others planning to be station owners, will be worse off than the Italians under Mussolini, because he does not aim to possess all business profits or to wreck refined, legitimate business. The victim will apparently have no redress—no collectible damages.

"Let us note concisely just what powers the commission has—greater than ever before possessed by an elected or appointed body in any civilized country. According to statements printed in the public press they are as follows:

"They are to dictate arbitrarily which stations can continue and which shall stop, thus wrecking any man's business or investment in a day.

"The commission is to be a permanent body for life, unaccountable to anyone regardless of their domineering acts.

"After the first year the Mussolini-Czar-like rule, the commission becomes a final authority in all controversies arising from the decisions made by the King of Commerce!

"This commission can draft any kind of a rule or regulation governing radio, regardless of equity or wisdom, and the Commerce Department must compel obedience!

NATURE OF SERVICE.

"The commission can prescribe the nature of the service that any broadcast station can give. Thus if the advertising combination promoting this legislation doesn't want competitions, the commission can stop it.

"The commission can dictate what hours any station may operate.

"The commission can create zones or areas to be served by any station thus limiting the station wattage or capacity.

"The commission can compel any station owner to show his account books.

"The commission can refuse license to anyone.

"The commission can sue a station owner in court.

"If a broadcast is paid for, the name of the person paying must be announced.

"If a politician is allowed to broadcast, similar time must be offered to any opposing candidate.

"Finally, fines, etc., are provided for any people who do not do as this commission or its creators want them to."

In view of the Congressional objections to the present radio bill, the above accusations take definite shape. The Senators who sponsored the bill were put to embarrassing explanations when leading senators asked where was any provision against monopoly.

As there is none, the lame excuse is offered that radio legislation is badly needed and the present bill is the best possible. The Boston accuser is emphatic in his assertions that if the bill goes through it will be the most autocratic and tyrannical law ever enacted.

Slain Doctor

HIS THROAT CUT
Dr. Caspar Pendola of Brooklyn, who was called too late to save the sick boy, was killed by the grief-stricken father after the boy died.

BEREAVED DAD KILLS DOCTOR

New York, Feb. 14 (I.N.S.)—Dr. Casper S. Pendola, 27, Brooklyn physician, is dead, his throat severed. His alleged slayer is in prison charged with the killing, and six young children are fatherless, all due to a parent's ignorance of the nature of antitoxin and failure to understand the young doctor had done his best for a dying boy.

Joseph Caruso, 6 years old, died yesterday of diphtheria a few hours after Dr. Pendola, who had been called too late to save the child's life, had administered antitoxin as a last hope. After the child's death the doctor made his second call, and Frank Caruso, father of five children besides Joseph, is alleged to have killed the doctor by cutting his throat with a butcher knife.

The body of the doctor fell within a few feet of the couch on which the body of the dead child lay.

Caruso fled. He was arrested later in Staten Island at the home of a brother.

Dr. Pendola was married and had one child, 4 months old.

EUROPEAN TOUR AGENCY SUED BY LEGION

Charging the George E. Marsters tourist agency with advertising a trans-Atlantic tour to the American Legion Paris Convention next September in opposition to the official Legion trip, Legionnaires sought an injunction and asked damages in Suffolk Superior Court today.

In its bill in equity the Legion sets forth that the tourist agency has used the official Legion emblem without authority in its advertising on the proposed trip, and that the agency's whole advertising program is laid out so as to deceive prospective travelers.

The Legion claims that at a meeting held in New York last May most of the recognized tourist agencies in the country voted unanimously to coöperate with the Legion in conducting the stupendous job of transporting 15,000 to 30,000 Legionaires to Paris for the convention. All agency representatives, the Legion charges, voted that the Legion should take exclusive control of the trip.

All have kept their promise, according to the bill filed today with the exception of Marsters, which instead has advertised an independent trip in opposition. In the use of the Legion emblem the bill charges Marsters has violated the law incorporating the Legion. The bill is returnable Wednesday.

Among his victims, according to police, is Mrs. Catherine Boynton, housekeeper at a hotel where Hutchinson made his residence. She says he took more than $2,000 from her.

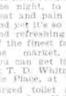
An Afterthought

P. S.

Anne, for the children's chapped hands, why don't you use Nultra Cold Cream? It's a natural skin food and is endowed with wonderful healing properties. It's all pure food, you know, and so organized that it sinks below the surface and does its work where the irritations are. I've known it to smooth out little roughened hands in one night, to draw all the heat and pain from a burn, and yet it's so gentle, so soft and refreshing that it's one of the finest face creams on the market. Fortunately you can get it conveniently at T. D. Whitney's, 39 Temple Place, at their new enlarged toilet goods department for $1.00 a jar, and once you've used it, you'll depend upon it as a loyal family friend. For a nultrafied skin is a young skin—a healthy, happy, radiant skin—and the shortest road to the nultrafied skin is through Nultra Cold Cream.



Faithfully yours,

Priscilla

We found it at the Seasonal Sales Store, 54 Chauncy Street, and at a most reasonable price. Only 89c for the big beauty, 39c for the smaller one and 15c for the wash cloth—$1.43 for the entire set, and a splendid grade of Turkish toweling—guaranteed fast color. A rose and gray bath rug came along, too, for $1.39; and a dainty set of cottage curtains appeared at the window. Exquisite curtains of shadow marquisette, which cost only $1.49.

That Isn't All—

The bed room looked too dingy then, so we bought some curtains for it also. Of lovely marquisette with ruffles, bound with a silk embroidered stitch of rose—giving a dainty note of color to the creamy white of them. They are made by the best curtain manufacturers in the country and yet at the Seasonal Sales Store we found them for $2.75 a pair—finished in rose, blue, orchid or gold, with tie backs complete. Then we added a beautiful rayon spread (for $4.89), big double bed size, coming way over the pillows and another room was ready for Spring. Truly, you can get the most wonderful bargains in linen, curtains, pillows and things at the Seasonal Sales Store, especially now while they are making special prices for us.

Mary Cary's

Going South. Peggy Perry's made all her new gowns and she says her wardrobe is smarter than Queen Marie's — Sport frocks, beach dresses, tea time gowns, dinner, dance and full evening wear. Peggy made every one. You know she does turn out the cleverest clothes in her dressmaking shop up in room 1105, of the Dexter Building, 453 Washington Street. She makes anything from a tailored business dress to an elaborate period gown, and creates all the variation of sport things. I saw a white georgette with bands of black Chantilly lace—V neck and innumerable pleats. She said it was a sport model. Then an ecru lace over flesh crepe. That was a sport model, too. Peggy only charges $12 for making any and every dress.

Mary's Figure

Is superb—due entirely to a corselette which she found at the Reya Corset Shop, on the 4th floor of the Lawrence Building, 149 Tremont St. And of all the garments ever devised for our comfort and good looks, you've got to hand it to that corselette. It fits superbly. Every line supports and restrains just enough to give a firm, erect carriage. It's made of excellent brocaded material and elastic webbing. And what's more, the Reya Corset Shop is offering them at the low price of $2.50 as its introduction into these columns. They come in sizes 27 to 41, and my lady of size 44 is going to find more satisfaction, real comfort and finer lines in this corselette than she would believe possible.

Want Real Luxury

Before going out tonight—a luxury that'll leave you looking ten years younger and twenty years happier? Then go to Adaline F. Thomas, the well-known beauty specialist in the Berkeley Building (420 Boylston Street) and put yourself into her hands for an hour or so. Have that famous milk pack of hers, which vanquishes tell-tale lines and wrinkles and leaves the skin baby-fresh and glowing. Have a shampoo under her firm, practiced fingers and a wave which reveals the beauty that is there. Let her give you a treatment to rebuild and rejuvenate the growth of the hair, moving, manipulating the stagnant roots into new life. And when it's over you emerge—rested, and radiant—ready for a dinner, dance or midnight party.

Penn, The Florist

Was a glorious picture today. When we stepped out of the crowd into the shop at 124 Tremont Street, it was as if we stepped into the midst of a mammoth valentine, where flowers were real, fountains played and birds sang. But it was better than a valentine, for Penn's flowers go deep into life itself. While we were standing there wee booties were filled with sweetheart roses and sweet peas for somebody's baby. A basket of Spring flowers was made up for someone sick—marguerites, sweet peas, tulips, jonquils, freezia and sprays of Scotch heather. Pansies and forget-me-nots were getting ready to take someone's love somewhere, and a great wreath of roses started on its mission of sympathy. Then a little girl came in to buy pussy willows, and as she caressed the soft, furry kittens climbing up the slender stems, her mother stood in reverie before the fragrant Easter lilies. Suddenly it came over me, the great waves of human affairs that sweep through Penn's every day of the year and the eternal need we poor mortals have of flowers. And that's why the little shop stands there on Boston's busiest street, in the midst of huge stores, with the great traffic roaring before it and beneath—an oasis, a sanctuary, reminding us that no matter what happens, Penn's flowers are still there.

The Challenge of Beauty

Held us. Why could not all women be as lovely as the flowers? We wandered into Filene's and heard our question answered through Mlle. Elaine, the personal representative of Helena Rubinstein, the great beauty scientist of the world. They could. Every woman possesses latent beauty. She can bring it out if she will—through three steps, simple, easy, but vitally important. First, cleanse and mold the skin; second, clear and bleach it; third, tone and brace the tissues. For the first step, Valaze Pasteurized Face Cream is recommended to remove dust and impurities from the skin and leave it immaculately clean, cool and refreshed ($1.00 per jar). For the second step, clear and bleach with Valaze Beautifying Skinfood ($1.00)—an active, regulating cream which refines and whitens the skin. Lastly tone and brace the tissues with Valaze Skin-toning Lotion ($1.25), which closes the pores and imparts the delicate moisture and bloom of youth. At Filene's, Anne, you'll find these products, and also that latest cosmetic masterpiece, the Cupidsbow lipstick, that self shaping lipstick which imparts a perfect outline on the instant and completes the process of make-up. This too, was created by Helena Rubinstein, and as she has given beauty to women—

So Lucile Gave Beauty

to "Holeproof." Yes, in the six new shades found in the Spring Holeproof Hosiery numbers at Talbot's (395 Washington Street), we find embodied rare and elusive beauty. Petal, for instance, is as delicate as a rose leaf—a perfect match for the new pastel parchment shoe, or a charming contrast for the lovely blues just coming in. Delis is a gray, a soft colonial gray, for the kidskins, the navy kids and the black patent leathers. Laleur is the season's substitute for sheer black, lighter than Renaud, yet conservative, slenderizing and exceedingly smart. Then there's Valerie, the neutral nude, an intriguing wine shade with a slight tan cast, to be worn with Spanish raisin leathers—Yvonne, the pale honey gold, and Fleur-de-Lis, the delicate tan for water lily shoes. Enchanting shades, created by Lucile and sponsored by the dictators of fashion as correct. You'll find them in the Holeproof hosiery at $1.00 a pair (3 for $2.85) and in the $1.65 quality (3 pair for $4.75) at Talbot's. And in spite of their sheer delicacy, the lustre and sheen of their superb quality, the complete finish they give to the new costumes, yet they maintain the good old reputation for long, honorable wear which has made the House of Holeproof. Mail orders taken care of promptly.

Let's Parachute Out of the Clouds

Of loveliness now and talk about practical things—Talbot's mammoth sale of pajamas, for instance, a sale which would have depleted their big new stock entirely, if more shipments had not arrived. But they did, just in time for me to announce that the sale is on for another few days, and there's still a chance to buy the family pajamas at a marvelous price. Pajamas at $1.00 a suit, really good ones, of a poplin-finished Madras, in blue, lavender and tan, with silky white frogs. Pajamas at $1.35, three suits for $4.00; of a finer quality Madras, in white as well as the other colors. They are the more decorative garments, in various popular shades with contrasting trimming; edged with silk braid and frogs to match, at $1.65 a pair. And best of all, the figures and plain broadcloths, of a soft, comfortable light weave, but built for years of wear. These are $1.85 a suit. Oh, it's a gala occasion in the pajama department at Talbot's this week, and that wise old man, Mr. Budget, is doing his best to spread the news and persuade thrifty folk to take advantage of the opportunity while it lasts. If you can't come in, write or wire them your order, for Talbot's maintain a mail order department which ships promptly, accurately and gladly any merchandise you desire.

Here's Hope for the Hope Chest

And help for the helpless—for every girl who faces the problem of gathering together all the details of household linen feels very, very helpless. But she needn't—for Geo. J. Khouri & Bros., Inc. (Room 45 Arcade, Park Square Bldg., 11 St. James Avenue), have inaugurated the Hope Chest Club, patterned after the Christmas Club—by which a girl pays $2 a week and owns by the end of the year a very lovely and practical collection of linens. She goes down to Khouri's, inspects three different displays of linens—the $75 collection, the $100 collection and the one for $125—decides which club to join and then it's off her mind. Each group contains the necessities and a few luxuries—the practical linens and the dainty cut work or embroidered pieces so dear to the heart of every home-maker. They are gathered together from all parts of the world—pure Irish linen, Italian antique embroidery, Madeira napkins, Czecho-Slovakian sets, embroidery from Switzerland and from China. As exquisite a bridal array as it's possible to collect, selected with utmost care, by an exclusive importer. Now don't that sound practical? Isn't it a gorgeous idea? Only a few dollars each week and the whole thing taken care of for you—practically, tastefully and economically.

The Noonan Creams Belong Together

And together give the perfect balance of ingredients for cleansing, clearing, bleaching, soothing, healing and rejuvenating the skin. Now that seems a big order, but this is the way it is done—and done with marvelous success: Just before retiring, or when preparing to go out for the evening, pat Noonan's Lemon Cream generously into the pores, working it gently over the surface until the tingle of the lemon is felt in every part of the face and neck. Then remove it with soft tissues, and the dust and dirt of the day, the impurities congested in the pores, every atom of foreign matter, is wiped away, too. But perhaps a little of the essence of lemon is left—refreshing, invigorating and stimulating, it is true, but a bit drying for some skins. So we apply Noonan's White Cream—the same pure delightful cream as the other, but without the lemon. This is left on longer, allowed to sink below the tissues and circulate among the pores. Then it, too, is removed, leaving the surface glowing and transparently clear, with the under-surface thoroughly nourished. And this is the secret of a beautiful skin. Filene's carry both of these creams—Noonan's Lemon Cream at 75c a jar and Noonan's White Cream at $1.00.

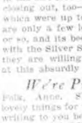
Last Week

I told you about the Hilda Lee Bed Time Tissue Cream which does such excellent work during the sleeping hours—but I never mentioned the Hilda Lee Cuticle Astringent Lotion and that was a decided oversight. For the Cuticle Astringent Lotion does have a marvelous effect in strengthening up the tissues, refining the pores and giving fresh life and vigor to the muscles. It is one of the products of Dr. Francis H. Drew, an experienced specialist in skin diseases, and has proved one of the scientific remedies for fatigued, drooping skins. But don't forget this delightful Bed Time Tissue Cream with its pinky fragrance, for that is sheer pleasure, both to use and in its results. Meyer Jonasson carries it—the Hilda Lee Cuticle Astringent Lotion at $1.50, and the Hilda Lee Bed Time Cream for $1.50, also.

Want a 15% Cut

Right off the price of a darling new Spring dress? Want to see some of the prettiest frocks and gowns in the city with 15 per cent. taken right off an already moderate price? Then go to Silver's Specialty Shop, up in room 502 of the Blake Building, 59 Temple Place, for they are giving that reduction—for this week only. On dresses priced $16.75, $19.75, $24.75 and $29.50; fifteen per cent. off any dress you desire. And that's a real gift, for every one there is a fresh smart new model, purchased within the last three weeks. Coats are closing out, too—at $29.50. Coats which were up to $75. But there are only a few left, about fifteen or so, and its been a good season with the Silver Specialty Shop, so they are willing to let them go at this absurdly low price.

We're Privileged

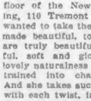


Folk, Anne. Shops are doing lovely things for us every day and writing to you becomes one series of "I'm-so-glad-I'm-alone" notes. Here's the Chic Gown Shop, that darling little shop on the fifth floor of the Ambassador Building (41 Winter Street) with a special offer just for us during the next three days. Smart new dresses for $12.95—the prettiest dresses imaginable; new printed crepes, combined with navy in variations of the bolero models, elusive tans, radiant rose and Spring's own favorite, the delicate blue. It's a holiday reduction, for those who will dance, dine and enjoy themselves over the week-end—and so there's a general cut in all their gowns—even those up to $95, bringing even the most expensive models down within our means. And we aren't too busy or too blind to see the advantage of that, are we?

Landfield's

Have made us a proposition that's about the most remarkable I've ever run into. And they're doing it simply to make it up to those disappointed customers who arrived too late last week for the Dollar Day values. Here it is—from Monday until Saturday night, we can buy the regular $1.75 pure silk hosiery for $1.49 a pair—in either the service silk or the chiffon—first quality silk lisle reinforced in the soles and the tops—full fashioned and with silk coming well over the knee. In fact, the stockings are a full 29 inches long. And—here's the big surprise—with every two pair you purchase, you'll receive another pair of the same splendid quality absolutely free. What's more, this offer includes the free mending service on all three pair. And I know those stockings are good. How's that for news—At Landfield's, 3rd floor, 8 Winter Street.

We Have Our Minds



On permanent waves once more. It's Spring, you know, and our hair reveals the annual Spring slump quicker than anything else. Of course, we felt a little timid and looked around very carefully, and it wasn't until I watched Mrs. Young and Billy give them at the French Beauty Shop (3rd floor of the New Studio Building, 110 Tremont Street) that I wanted to take the plunge and be made beautiful, too. Her waves are truly beautiful—wide, graceful, soft and glossy, with the lovely naturalness of healthy hair trained into charming curves. And she takes such infinite pains with each twist, in selecting just the right pad for the consistency of the hair, in standing by and watching every second. The price is $15 for the entire head. But it's well to make appointments early, for the French Beauty Shop wave is very popular.

Oh, Blessed Relief

And unutterable joy—of a Swiss Pine Bath at the end of the day. I heard of it through friends, bought a bottle at Meyer Jonasson's and experienced at last the delight of bathing in the essence of Balsam. 'Twas like dipping into a forest pool at twilight, drenched in the fragrance of the pines—relaxed, content, at peace with the world and deliciously drowsy. And this liquid of fragrant joy is called Swiss Pine Bath—or Laepinin-Balsam—distilled from the pine needles of the wooded slopes of Switzerland and containing the ozone, the aroma and health-giving beauty of that land. It is $2 a bottle—enough for ten or twelve baths—at the Meyer Jonasson toilet goods department. And if ever you're dead tired, fatigued in every nerve and muscle or tied up tight with worry, use this gracious gift of Nature and experience, too, the incomparable relief it has to offer.

Miss Wiggin

Comes back from New York tonight. She went over again to prepare for another style show. The one at Taunton was such a success that she's been asked to put on another at Lynn on the evenings of February 24, 25 and 26, at the Hall of the Knights of Pythias. Now she simply must clear her racks to make room for all the beautiful new clothes a style show involves and so she has announced a sweeping price of $12.75 on the big majority of her Spring dresses already in the shop. You know what this means, for you know every model she buys is the prettiest, smartest thing she could find in New York, and you know she has a marvelous genius for line and distinctive styles. Best of all, this sale includes women both big and little, for the sizes run from 16 to 50. Miss Wiggin's dresses at $12.75! Think of that, Anne. And also make your plans now to take in that style show if you possibly can.

The Outstanding News

At Evelyn's Dress Shop this week is that her extraordinary group of $12.95 dresses will be $10.95 (Evelyn, you're a marvel—I don't see how you ever do it.) That makes her three main prices $8.95, $10.95 and $14.95. And I want to tell you, Anne, that those $8.95 dresses are little sweethearts—as pretty, fresh and modish as you will ever find at that price. Dainty georgettes and flat crepes, a few rayon twills and French flannels. In the $12.95 group we found stunning styles for the younger set, and in the $14.95 dresses, a wide selection for the matron as well. The smart, dignified blacks and blues with slenderizing lines and graceful touches. You'll know Evelyn's Dress Shop by the crowd that's generally there, up on the third floor, 8 Winter Street.

Our Guardian Angel

will take us next into the Ambassador Lamp Shop (5th Floor, Ambassador Building, 41 Winter Street) and reveal to us a dozen opportunities to make our homes radiantly beautiful at little cost. It will show us lamp shade frames, formerly around $3, which can be bought for 89c, if one buys the materials for making the shade there, too. It will lead us to saving 20 per cent on ruchings, fringes and French flowers and point out to us big, bouncing pillow forms for 95c, filled with Kapok, ready to cover. Tapestries formerly $12.50 and $18 are being sold for $5; mahogany smoking stands a few weeks ago $9 are now $4, and there's a shop full of similar treasures. But this guardian angel of ours will warn us again and again that this sale and these prices will only hold for the next three days.

And Now Comes

Virozol. Never let a day go by or night time come without paying your respects to Virozol, for if you do, Virozol will forget its respects to you, and you'll lose that delightful bloom and radiance which the Virozol Swedish Face Bath so marvelously creates. And you'll miss the stimulating effect, the joy of feeling the tiny tissues stand up and stretch out their arms for it when the moistened bit of cotton is patted against them. However, you won't forget it. The Virozol habit persists, especially when Virozol Almond Cream assists in the process of holding and restoring youth. But lest you miss a day of it, remember that Conrad's, on Winter street, have a big supply of them both, the Face Bath, at $1.25, and the Cream, $1.00.

HEART OF BANGOR SHOWING BUILDINGS SWEPT AWAY IN FLAMES

Panoramic view of Maine city, menaced today by $1,000,000 blaze. The fire started in the centre of the business district and for a time threatened to result in a conflagration. Combined efforts of Bangor and out-of-town firemen finally halted the flames after four of the city's largest buildings had been reduced to ruins and several other buildings damaged. The Thrill of Love and Millions Abounds in Every Chapter

CHAPTER I.

THE [illegible] thoroughfare shone like a river of burnished [illegible] the warm glow of the arc lamps swinging [illegible] Winter breeze. The jar and complaint of London's traffic came to this backwater of Belgravia in a dull, [illegible] that struck not unpleasantly upon the ear.

[illegible] tramped along like a man who has no destination. Once Luke Jefferies had partaken of the wealth and luxury suggested by every line of these massive town houses. He looked [illegible], his big frame clothed in an old shooting jacket and tweed trousers—clothes stained with exposure to wind and rain, yet bearing on them the name of the exclusive West End tailor who had fashioned them eight years ago.

He paused for a moment to relight his pipe. The match threw into relief the strong, almost formidable looking face.

So [illegible] was he that he did not notice the opening of the door of a house nearby, nor did he see a girl look uncertainly up and down the street. Then a voice at his elbow startled him.

"Forgive me. I do beg you to forgive me. Would you do a service for a dying man?"

He saw her to be young and beautiful, with eyes bedimmed with tears [illegible] young girl, wearing a simple frock.

"What sort of service?" Luke asked.

"I [illegible] tell you now—not here." The voice was still low and [illegible]. "If you would believe, it is dreadfully urgent. Will you come [illegible]?"

"There?" he said as he caught a glimpse of a luxurious interior, and a man servant standing in the hall looking out at them.

"It is my father's house. He is Fabian Vickers, the financier. [illegible] you will have heard of him."

"I have heard of him," said Jefferies, slowly.

"It is terrible. He has lately been overcome with some disease. He cannot get up. We have had to put up a bed in the study. He has sent me out now—while he is dying—to find someone to whom he can intrust a message."

"I will come," said Luke Jefferies, briefly.

"Oh, thank you," he heard her murmur, as she fled before [illegible].

In the hall the man servant looked after him with shrewd eyes and then closed the street door noiselessly.

Jefferies followed his guide down a passage to a green baize screen which, being pushed aside, revealed a closed door. They entered. Jefferies noted a warm, pleasantly furnished apartment fitted up as a library. His attention was arrested by the figure of an old man propped up by many pillows.

Present with him was an elderly man, evidently a solicitor.

"Who is this man?" asked the invalid, in grating, clear-cut accents.

"I don't know his name, father, but I have told him of your extremity, and he has kindly consented to come in."

"This is my father, Mr. Fabian Vickers," she continued to Luke.

"My name," said the visitor, with his slow drawl, "is Luke Jefferies."

He waited for what should come next.

"You were Cambridge, weren't you?" said the sick man, suddenly.

"That's right."

"So was I. I can always tell. This is my legal adviser, Mr. Margetson."

Mr. Margetson bowed. Luke Jefferies merely gave him a curt nod.

"I'll ask you to wait in the adjoining room while Mr. Jefferies and I talk," said Fabian Vickers, with the abruptness of one accustomed to have his slightest wish obeyed. "Mary, you will please stay."

"This is a strange way of beginning an acquaintance," said Vickers suddenly, bending penetrating eyes upon his guest. "Won't you sit down?"

"I will stand if you please. I am used to standing."

"Are you an honorable man?"

"There are different definitions given to the word 'honorable.' If you mean, am I likely to steal your spoons or silver, I have not yet qualified for that. But I must tell you that I belong to the confraternity known as the 'down and out,' and if we have a code of honor it is strictly our own."

"You are frank, at least."

"Oh, yes, frank." He looked at Mary Vickers as if to invite participation in a joke.

"I will be equally frank," Fabian Vickers spoke slowly and carefully. "My time is short, Mr. Jefferies. I know nothing about you. I must take you as an opportunity sent by Providence—whether for good or ill, it is as God wills. You will behave according to your character. I shall trust that the exposition of it will at least do my daughter no harm."

"You may rely on that, sir," said Luke Jefferies with a faint inclination of his head.

"To our business, then, Mr. Jefferies, I may fairly claim to be the victim of misfortune. I have pitted myself, not for the first time in my career, against a combination of clever and ambitious men, and this time I have come off second-best. They are both ruthless and cruel. The result of the machinations you can see in my condition here. I am bedridden, helpless, my body all but dead—only my mind survives." He turned gently to his daughter, uttered an exclamation and his hand sought hers and pressed it.

"Their resources, which seem to be unlimited, have had no other object but to prevent me fulfilling a purpose to which I have set my hand. They have killed me, but I am seeking a man who will take up my work where I have laid it down and see it through to the extent of which he is capable. It will be a task full of deadly peril, and it may possibly result in the reward such as I am enjoying. On the other hand, it will be well paid; and the man who takes it on will have the double satisfaction of benefiting not only himself—but mankind—in particular, if it is of any account to you, the nation to which he belongs. Have you followed me so far?"

"Clearly."

"You will receive a sufficient sum for immediate emergencies at once; a thousand pounds will be paid into any bank you like to name as soon as you begin work, and ten thousand pounds will be yours if the mission is brought to a satisfactory conclusion."

"What do you want done?" said Luke Jefferies, very simply.

The stricken man searched him with his vigilant eyes. What he saw seemed to satisfy him, for he signed to his visitor to come nearer.

The girl stood with marble-like face and lowered head, her eyes not leaving her father's face.

99 OF 100 DOCTORS' RUM PATIENTS BOOTLEGS

Chicago, Feb. 14 (A. P.)—More than "99 out of 100 prescriptions written for a pint of whiskey are bootlegging prescriptions and are a disgrace to the great medical profession," said Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan, chairman of the American Medical Association, which is meeting here today.

"From the standpoint of personal hygiene and public health, legislation has never been passed that has such possibilities for good as the prohibition amendment," he said, adding that the government's provision which permits a physician to write 100 pint whiskey prescriptions a quarter, and to obtain 12 pints of whiskey and five gallons of alcohol a year for office use was [illegible].

"Previous to the time of the Volstead act, honest physicians in general practice never prescribed 100 pints of whiskey in three months. I have practiced medicine for many years and I have never prescribed whiskey except to a patient with delirium tremens since prohibition has been in force."

Dr. Bevan also attacked division of fees and 'some expert witnesses who give partisan testimony for pay."

Tunney Says He Will Never Marry While He Retains Title—No Place for a Wife in a Training Camp—Champion Has Escaped Cupid's Darts

SO long as I am champion I shall not marry.

I do not feel, as some persons do, that marriage is a disastrous thing for a boxer, especially if it happens during the heyday of his career. But I am of the belief that it might be distracting for such a fighter and that in a certain way, it might count against his perpetuation as a topnotcher

Wide's "Pure" Status Not Questioned

Boston, Feb. 14 (I N S.)—The amateur standing of Edwin Wide Swedish runner, is not in jeopardy, William Prout, chairman of the A. A. U. foreign relations committee said today.

The report that Wide's alleged "cut" in the sale of tickets to a meet in New York was under investigation was denied by Prout.

"We did hold a meeting Saturday, but the ticket report was not involved," said Prout. "I expect to have a statement later explaining the whole matter."

Wide will make his only appearance here at the East Armory, on Feb. 22, in the American Legion games.

LA BARBA IS THE FAVORITE OVER VACCA

when LaBarba and Vacca enter the ring. First Jimmy Wilde and then Pancho Villa made the flyweights popular here.

LaBarba is not a stranger in our midst. It was at the Arena that he won the national flyweight championship when an amateur and thus earned a position on the American Olympic team.

LaBarba has been in town for two weeks. He came here following his sensational victory over Elky Clark in New York. He did his training at Al Lacy's Gym in Chelsea. Manager George Blake and Lacy had charge of the youngster's [illegible] boxing form is as good as the nutritive value of a crate of California oranges.

LABARBA is the kind of a youngster who captivates fans everywhere. He has the appeal of youth, having just past his twenty-first [illegible]ay. He also has the class of a champion.

The youthful Fidel has accumu[illegible] short career in the ring. He will make $100,000 more between now and the Fall, when he says he will [illegible] ring for a college career at Leland Stanford University.

The cynical boys of the boxing racket say LaBarba's statement that he will retire so as to enter college is the apple sauce. But then most of these gentlemen do not know the real Fidel LaBarba. They have never talked with this sparkling youth who realizes that boxing has its dangers, and that a fortune in [illegible] with it. It is his ambition to [illegible] for the stock and bond [illegible]

VACCA can step right into the big money by walloping LaBarba. [illegible]

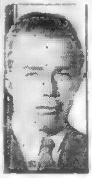
Sunday Sport Bill Has Real Backing New Attitude | Friday's Big Bout Popular as Title Go Maloney's Great Chance

SUNDAY SPORT BILL HAS REAL SUPPORT

THE Sunday sport bill is up for another hearing tomorrow.

The opponents will have their say before the Legal Affairs Committee. The boys who think the Sabbath should not be enjoyed in the great open air, except by themselves, perhaps, on their golf courses, will produce a lot of arguments. But it would seem that the bill will pass the committee.



Nick Flatley

Backing of a kind that cannot be overlooked, even by partisan politicians, has come to support the bill. Chambers of Commerce in various towns have enthusiastically endorsed the plan. The city council in Lowell has come out in its favor. The business men of Haverhill have voted to stick with it. And so on throughout the State.

Time was when any Sunday measure was pre-doomed in this State. But the modern idea of outdoor living has pushed that idea into the background. Leading citizens and churchmen, and everybody who can, play golf or go auto riding on the day of rest.

They are coming to have a generous attitude toward the thousands who have to stay in the cities; the boys who might play ball or go to ball games, if they were handy. Sunday baseball would, of course, be a big money maker for the professional clubs. But that is no argument against it. In a rather long lifetime, we've never come across any more healthful or cheaper way of spending a few Summer hours.

And the kids in the cities and the small towns would have plenty of helpful fun if they could take their bats and taped balls, and play the gang from the gashouse on the public playgrounds

THE MODERN AGE HAS NO RESPECT FOR THE GREAT SOMEBODY HAS JUST DUG UP THE FACT THAT A. LINCOLN USED TO BE A WRESTLER

FRIDAY ROW POPULAR AS ANY TITLE SCRAP

THAT Friday quarrel between James Maloney and Jack Delaney has assumed all the importance and everything else of the recent row between Gene Tunney, the wealthy marine, and Jack Dempsey, the one time man killer. The war would be a sellout at Boyle's Thirty Acres, or anywhere else.

Indoors, the ducats were all gone by application before there was chance for any sale. Dan Carroll, who manages Maloney, had to threaten to call off the conference, to get any tickets from Tex Rickard. The speculators are preparing to make a few millions, and New York is on the verge of a pasteboard scandal.

The fight game, with half a dozen really good heavies on the scene, has reached undreamed of heights of popularity and affluence. And there seems to be no end in sight, at least until after some one of the boys takes a whack at Tunney next September.

Maloney, winning Friday, will be sure of an outdoor shot with the [illegible] of the McTigue-Sharkey fray. That would mean at $150,000, and probably a whole lot more to James. Small wonder that he's training seriously!

MALONEY SAYS HE WILL BEAT DELANEY

one by Delaney. Berlenbach [illegible] twice gone fifteen rounds with the French-Canadian. The second with Delaney, Berlenbach won [illegible] last time they met Jack received the decision and the world's [illegible] heavyweight champions[illegible]

Now in the second [illegible] Delaney bout [illegible] and roughed his way through [illegible] tory. The third time they met I tried to box and lost. That's [illegible] off. I've got to go in there and crowd Delaney. I have got to make it rough. My trainer, Jerry Gardner, as well as Dan Carroll, agrees with me [illegible]

Carroll has hired several fast and shifty fellows to act as sparring partners for me here at Jim DeForrest's Long Branch, N. J., camp. Tommy Loughran, the pick of the light heavyweight division, is with me. Tommy, to my mind, is the outstanding contender for the light heavyweight championship. If I defeat Delaney and drive him back to the light heavyweight ranks, Loughran is hopin' at last to get a shot at the title. I'll try and do my best for Tommy's cause by beating Delaney.

Tommy Kr[illegible] and Jimmy M[illegible] [illegible] feathers [illegible] is also on my staff.

Win or lose Friday night, Carroll and I are going to [illegible] weeks [illegible] And we are [illegible] I lose, I'll have to start all over again.

[illegible]

Anything can happen in the fight game and when anybody offers $50,000 for a boxer's services the boxer should have his head examined if he rejects it. Carroll knows that if I win from Delaney that he can get from $75,000 to $100,000 for my end for a bout with Jack Sharkey.

Win or lose, Jack Delaney is [illegible] to know that he has been in a fight after it is [illegible] ning at the Garden.

NO COSTLY TINS, NO FRILLS OF ANY KIND
A QUALITY TOBACCO IN A COMMON-SENSE PACKAGE

—it's so darned sensible,—this way!

ECONOMY outside, quality inside—isn't that sense? . . . Do not permit the modest price of Granger Rough Cut to mislead you as to its inner quality.

Recall a similar innovation in cigarettes some twenty years ago; and then consider how completely the soft package has today displaced the more costly rigid box.

The same story here: it's what's inside that counts! And inside this simple purple package is a combination of quality, good taste, character, and coolness that you'd have trouble matching anywhere —at any price!

I said [illegible] needed, and I did send it to her [illegible] here," he answered, and as he spoke a huge [illegible] with yellow [illegible] of some [illegible] tales. "Well, to go on with my story" [illegible] Or at least, I thought so at first. Of course [illegible]

"I'm so sorry about you and [illegible]"

He caught her slender wrist in his big coarse hand as she tried to [illegible]

She tried to [illegible] in a careless [illegible] beside her as she turned toward the [illegible] she could see the [illegible] in the courtyard [illegible] disks of silver. She went on talking just as fast as she could pour the words from her stiff lips, and [illegible] them—if only she could get out into [illegible] his question, "I'm staying at my [illegible] now. And Joe Meadows only laughed, and [illegible]

"What are you [illegible] me [illegible] voice of me, after a full minute of silent struggle on Honey Lou's part. [illegible]

"I am nothing," gasped Honey Lou, [illegible] with [illegible]

With a great wrench she was [illegible] "let me go!" she panted [illegible] and open that gate out there or [illegible]" She stopped short [illegible] refused to [illegible]

"Honey Lou, you're making a [illegible] fool of yourself," he [illegible]. "What's the matter with you anyway? You'd think I was trying to hurt you—" He came a step or two nearer, his eyes on her [illegible] red lips and the eyes [illegible] between their [illegible]

His name [illegible] he came and [illegible]

But Honey Lou did not hear [illegible] her brain was busy with the sight of [illegible] bulldog head, the bluish stubble of beard on his face, the [illegible] of the mouth. In [illegible] he was good looking. The kind of man who [illegible] in most of [illegible] he said to her [illegible] out of the [illegible]

Jim took a sudden step toward me and then stopped abruptly. His [illegible] his face was dim with pain [illegible] said quietly:

"Ralph sent me here. I was in his office when you telephoned him and asked him to announce the engagement. I believe he loves you so much—so deeply that he was willing to risk his happiness for yours. Where does it lie, Anne?"

"With the man I love," I whispered.

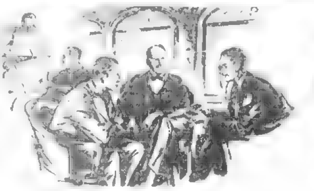
CASCARA QUININE



When a Diuretic Is Needed

Users Everywhere Rely On Doan's Pills

MOST people know the necessity of proper elimination through the bowels. The part played by the kidneys and their importance to bodily health is perhaps not so well understood.

It is the duty of the kidneys to keep the blood stream free from the toxins of bodily waste.

Sluggish kidney function, however, permits some retention of these waste poisons and is apt to make one tired and achy with often a dull, toxic backache and occasionally drowsy headaches and dizziness.

Improper kidney function is often shown by scanty or burning secretions.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic*, gently assist the kidneys and aid in their elimination of body-poisons. More than 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

*Diuretics are agents which increase the secretion of the kidneys — Encyclopaedia definition.

Hair Styles In Paris

By Edna Wallace Hopper

This is how girls and women were dressing hair in Paris when I was there last summer. Some have permanent waves smooth and glossy. Some have one-week waves combed over the fingers. Some have sleek hair like a well-groomed boy's.

For [illegible] they use a new type hair dress such as I use. It keeps the wave or curl. Or it keeps hair fluffy like my hair if one desires. Or it keeps hair smooth and glossy without grease. At the same time it gives the hair a luster and enhances the color. I have never found a hair dress to compare.

All toilet counters now sell that hair dress as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75 cents.

Whatever style of hair you like best, this is something you must try. It keeps the wave, the curl, or the fluff. Or it keeps the hair sleek without grease. Then the added beauty it gives will amaze and delight you.

It was kind of pittyful at that, sed Pa.

He said how haf the mitey fallen, how haf the old Romans crumbeld, that is what Bill Freeze sed to me, sed Pa. Sumhow, sed Pa, he looked like Hannybul among the rewins of Carthige, sed Pa. He looked so sad, sed Pa.

How idiotick, sed Ma. Doant you & yure sporty old friends reelize that you are fifty per cent better off every way than you were wen you used to inhale hard drinks? sed Ma.

I doant know how to anser that, sed pa. Sumtimes I think we are, but you see, wife, sed Pa, in those old days we had a terribul lot of fun, too.

You meen a lot of terribul fun, sed Ma.

Well it was fun, any way you want to put it, sed Pa. & now the old wurld is so dusty & dry & dreery, sed Pa.

The old wurld is much better off than it was wen every other foot led into a bar, sed Ma. & about all the fun you used to haf, sed Ma, was lissening to eech other tell how grate you all were or singing Sweet Addy-line. In those days, sed Ma, the men ackted like a bunch of over groan boys, Ma sed, & thare wifes was the helperless victims, sed Ma, sitting at hoam with greef in thare harts, sed Ma.

Yes, sed Pa, greef in thare harts & a Indian club in thare fins, sed Pa. How well I recall those times, sed Pa. Wen I was a boy I used to be grate at swinging Indian clubs, sed Pa, & later in life I got to be jest as handy at dodging them, sed Pa. But I dare say it is all for the best, sed Pa kind of quick.

Did yure frend Bill Freeze haf a sody with you? sed Ma.

MEDBURY SAYS THAT THE NEW DANCES ARE HARD ON THE FEET

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

A WELL-KNOWN school of terpsichore held a contest the other day for original steps and a man with St. Vitus dance came along and shook himself into first prize.

HE doesn't mind trembling so much now that he can shake to music.

A HOOF expert says that in 1928, dancing will sweep the country. This will be bad news to street cleaners.

INSTEAD of employing a lot of boulevard manicurists, the city will hire a couple of cabaret dancers to do the Charleston in a pile of rubbish.

WITH a little practice it will only take them a few hours to kick it out of the State.

A CHIROPODIST is suing a well-known ballet master for fifty thousand dollars. He claims that the kind of dances the professor teaches is hurting his business.

PEOPLE don't get corns any more.

WITH everybody doing the Black Bottom, the chiropractors are getting all the trade.

ONE fellow just invented a new step that's so fast it makes a Charleston dancer look like he's paralyzed.

HIS pupils wear speedometers instead of wrist watches.

THE complete dance takes a half hour. Fifteen minutes to get going and fifteen minutes to stop.

HE charges his students four dollars a mile.

ONE man tried this new dance the other day, and threw himself half out of joint. The cops came along later and threw him out entirely.

THE government officials in Washington finally stopped him. They said he was putting all the seismographs on the bum.

HIS feet were so hot that when he rubbed alcohol on them they exploded.

HE had to cool his corns with a fire extinguisher.

NEW steps are interesting, but it's too bad we can't bring back the good fashioned dances like the Texas Tommy and the Shimmy.

Kill that skin eruption at the start

Neglect of even the slightest skin rash, roughness, or chafing may have serious consequences. Painful, disfiguring complaints like eczema, stubborn sores, etc., all start in a small way.

The safest plan is to keep a jar of Resinol Ointment ready to use at the first sign of skin trouble. It promptly stops itching and reduces inflammation and burning. The tiny pores readily receive this soothing ointment, and its healing influence is carried far below the surface of the skin.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

OUTLOOK FOR U. S. BUSINESS IS GOOD

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Outlook for business in the United States continues good. With wages and prices reasonably stabilized, normal needs of the American people, who themselves provide the world's greatest market, are believed to be enough to produce a healthy volume of trade. The building situation, an acknowledged backlog of prosperity, is holding up well, one [illegible] evidence of which appears in the most recent report for New England, which shows a gain for the last reported week over the like period of last year. The important factor of railroad equipment buying, earlier predicted in this column, has already made its appearance in substantial form.

Samuel O. Dunn, editor-in-chief of Railway Age, Chicago authority on matters pertaining to the country's steel ways of transportation, will address those who gather at the 24th annual banquet of the Traffic Club of New England at the Copley Plaza next Thursday evening. Editor Dunn is the latest addition to the gallery of newspaper men called upon to address business and financial leaders here by such organizations as the Traffic Club and the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the total of which in the past few weeks would reach close to a dozen.

Only a few weeks ago the stock market had more or less of a general setback, alleged to have been caused by the announcement W. C. Durant, former Boston "auto wizard," was planning a trip to Europe. We pointed out at the time that, when Mr. Durant left Wall Street for a previous extended trip, the market enjoyed one of its best advances. And now comes news he has cancelled his Feb. 17 reservations on a steamship for Italy.

Durant, in Interview With Forbes, Big Bull on Stocks

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—William C. Durant, motor magnate, who is credited with having been the most important factor in the stock market during the last two or three years, has given me the first authorized interview he has ever granted on the market outlook.

B. C. Forbes

He discussed also the industries and corporations which he believes have the greatest future.

The short interest in the stock market is today the largest ever known, declares Mr. Durant. He expects fireworks in more than one oversold issue. He says definitely that many good stocks will touch new high quotations.

MR. DURANT, after becoming the largest manufacturer in the world of horse-drawn vehicles, founded General Motors, developed it amazingly, lost and regained control, carried the corporation to still higher heights, and again lost control.

Thereafter he organized Durant Motors, Inc., but its record has fallen very far short of duplicating that of General Motors. Indeed, Mr. Durant told me that he is grievously disappointed over the losses sustained by many purchasers of Durant Motors shares and that he hopes to be able to do something substantial in this direction. He told me that he may talk to me more fully about such plans by and by.

At 65 Mr. Durant is as dynamically active as ever, notwithstanding that, in a railway wreck last year, his head was split open, leaving to this day a scar running from half way down his forehead clear across his head. His associates declare that he works morning, noon and night, Saturdays, holidays and, often, on Sundays.

"MERITORIOUS stocks will sell higher. We will witness many new tops."

That was one of his emphatic statements. He went on:

"The short interest in the market today is enormous. I don't know that it ever was larger. All classes have apparently thought it thoroughly safe to sell shares they do not own. Big operators—lots of them—have gone short many thousands of shares; smaller operators have been relatively just as daring; and Wall Street brokers say that apparently people who never before dared to sell a single share short—who probably didn't know before what short selling really was—are now going short one hundred or two hundred shares.

"There have been repeated attempts to break the market by the shorts. Many of them have become nervous when they have found that, do what they liked, they could not stampede the millions of small investors throughout the country into throwing over their investments regardless of the prices obtained.

"Personally, I am absolutely certain that stocks will go up, to put it very mildly, when the bears finally realize that they cannot get back their stocks without starting something.

"In two or three stocks, at least, a very large part of the entire shares outstanding have been borrowed by the shorts. How can they expect to get out of the hole they have dug for themselves?"

HOW FAR can bears or bulls "rig" the stock market? Here is Durant's analysis:

"Bear selling can influence a market only temporarily unless the fundamental conditions warrant lower prices. In the same way, a market cannot be arbitrarily bulled. Facts govern in the end. In stocks, as elsewhere, merit tells.

"To get all the facts about the stock market—even about a few stocks—usually entails a great deal of research and study and analysis.

"It is a mistaken notion that a man can operate in the stock market more easily—and successfully—than he can operate a business. The truth is that the latter is much easier to operate profitably than the former, because it takes so much more information, so many more facts, so much weighing and analyzing to get a sound line on the stock market and what it should logically do.

"Oh, yes, the stock market always acts logically in the long run. Bears may depress it unduly for a while; and bulls may send it up unduly for a while. But sooner or later—and usually sooner rather than later—it persists in swinging back to where it rightfully belongs.

"You can't make a stock worth $50 a share sell indefinitely at $100 a share or even $75 a share. You can, perhaps, for a time, but only for a time."

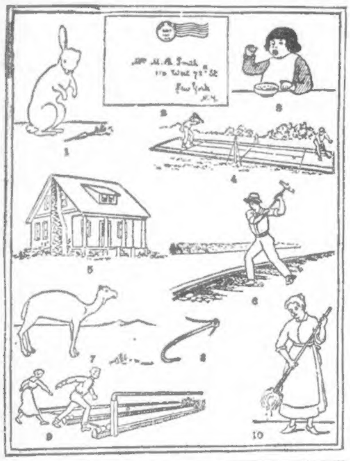
NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Testing Morons

Half of Us Are Twelve Years Old Mentally



A PICTURE TO TEST THE FEEBLE-MINDED. THEY ARE ASKED: "WHAT IS MISSING?"

Science calls "idiot" a man with the mind of a child two years old. An adult with the mind of a child from three to seven is called "imbecile."

An adult not ranging in intellect above a child of twelve is called "moron," which comes from a Greek word meaning "fool."

This country was much surprised during the war, when a scientific test showed that almost half of 1,700,000 Americans, carefully tested, came within the twelve-year age or moron limit.

You need not be too much alarmed by these "statistics." Every little boy has read the story of the preoccupied philosopher who put his watch in the boiling water and watched a raw egg for three minutes.

He was not necessarily a moron, only thinking of something else.

However, there are in all masses of population an extraordinary number that NEVER GROW UP. Every other man that you see has the mind of an intelligent child of twelve, or younger.

Dr. Henry H. Goddard, of Ohio State University, writes in the Lancaster, Pa., Scientific Monthly an interesting essay on morons. He says we need them because they can do monotonous work that more intelligent men are not willing to do. They can be trained to do such work as well as a more intelligent man would do it, and there is no cruelty inflicted upon them, as they are doing what they are quite CONTENT to do.

This picture is prepared to test the intelligence of the moron class. They are asked "What is missing?" Your child of eight will easily see that the rabbit has only one ear, the camel no hump; the little girl will notice that the woman has no pail in which to put her mop, that the man is bowling with no ball in his hands, that there is no net on the tennis court, that the child has no spoon, and the letter with the canceling mark no canceled stamp.

It is interesting to think that millions upon millions of adults among us would have difficulty in correcting this picture for lack of concentration. The mind is there, but cannot THINK.

A Poor Bible Reader

Might Make a Good Citizen

An Italian boy, age seventeen, whose father is an American citizen, was turned away from the United States because he couldn't read fluently this verse from the Old Testament:

> "Behold, he traveleth with iniquity, and hath conceived mischief, and brought forth falsehood. He made a pit, and digged it, and hath fallen into the ditch which he made."

Lincoln's mother could not have read that verse, either, but she was useful.

What we need in this country is intelligent, willing workers, not expert Bible readers. That can come later.

Castles in the Air

A New York woman, in bringing suit for divorce, claims that the man she married promised her a castle on the Rhine and then failed to make good. She would very much like the castle.

Castles on the Rhine are not so much. What any modern woman can want of one is a mystery. Castles on the Rhine do not have elevators, sanitary plumbing, radio sets, vacuum cleaners, dumb-waiters, garbage incinerators, Roman pools, electric ranges or steam heat. A castle on the Rhine looks fine on picture post-cards, but is mighty tough on its occupants.

Even if this woman had got her castle on the Rhine, probably the roof would have leaked.

Now if, for instance, the man had promised her a modern apartment and failed to deliver, she might have had a first-class case.

CAN AN ENGLISHMAN SEE A JOKE?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE idea that an Englishman can't see the point of a joke is of long standing. It began when the second generation of Pilgrims began telling newcomers the one about the man who said: "No, that wasn't a lady, it was my wife."

Maybe it began even before that. At any rate, it is widely accepted today.

Stories of untold number have been retailed about the country concerning honest Britishers who burst into guffaws one day, two days, a week, even a month after hearing a joke.

Many people in America even believe that a law had to be passed in London prohibiting the telling of jokes in vaudeville shows on Saturday night because so many people laughed out loud in church on Sunday.

As a matter of fact it seems that an Englishman can see the point of an American joke as well as anyone else.

But when he sees the point he doesn't see any humor in it.

He chuckles at a different brand of humor. What Americans think uproarious may not seem funny at all to him.

For instance, the old reliable one about the hunter who killed all the birds roosting on a quarter mile of zig-zag rail fence by bending the barrel of his gun to match the twisting of the fence elicits no loud ha-ha on "The Tight Little Isle."

There it isn't a joke. It is just a lie.

Native American humor runs to absurdities and exaggerations; English humor to word-play, puns and personalities.

So when an Englishman doesn't laugh at an American joke it is not always indicative that he does not see the point; it just doesn't seem funny, perhaps.

Another source of the idea that the English can't see a joke is hinted at in the tale of the American who told "the latest from America" to an English friend.

When he finished he slapped his knee with glee, but his friend sat unmoved.

"Well, you will laugh at that next year," he said.

"Oh, no," blinked the Englishman, "I laughed at that last year."

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Happy is he who has known the rural divinities. —Virgil.

All that is human must retrograde if it does not advance. —Gibbon.

Self-love is the greatest of all flatterers.

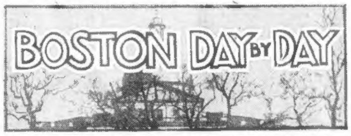
The secret of ugliness consists not in irregularity but in being uninteresting. —Emerson.

Truth is a strong thing. Let man's life be true.—Browning.

Nature's first great title—mind. —George Croly.

Sweet the help of one we have helped. —Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

The sum of wisdom is that the time is never lost that is devoted to work. —Emerson.



LONG RUNS

GEORGE HILL of ARLINGTON and the State Street Trust Company has three of the finest children ever. At least, that is what many of his friends, as well as GEORGE, seem to think. He used to be a semi-pro ball player of considerable renown, but of recent years had forsaken the outfield for the billiard table, where he clicks them off in consistent long runs. "Three banks," said George, "are better than three bases."

WAITING

GEORGE H. JOHNSON, city collector, tells a funny one. A citizen came to his office and said: "I can't pay my poll tax." JOHNSON said, "Did you pay last year?" "No," came back the reply. "I haven't paid one for six years," volunteered the citizen. "Well you ought to be in jail," said Johnson. About three hours later, JOHNSON was passing through the outer office of the collection department when he recognized said citizen. Calling to one of the clerks he told him to find out what the citizen was waiting for. The clerk returned to say the citizen was waiting to find out the name of the jail.

GOVERNORS RAISE CATTLE

GOVERNOR FULLER'S Guernsey farm at Rye, N. H., is well known to auto tourists, but he is not the only gubernatorial cattle raiser. FORMER GOVERNOR JOHN G. WINANT of New Hampshire is prominent among breeders of Ayrshires. Only last month LIEUT.-GOV. FRANK G. ALLEN was chosen as a principal speaker before the annual meeting of New England Ayrshire raisers in Boston.

FOR HARVARD "GRADS."

JOHN W. PRENTISS, of the Boston and New York house of Hornblower & Weeks, who lately figured in the news as having offered HENRY FORD a billion dollars for the "auto works," is ever interested in Boston and Harvard. He is one of the syndicate group which has just secured property from J. PIERPONT MORGAN, to be added to the home of the Harvard graduates in New York.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE you wondered what They'd say if they could know what you are really thinking behind all your laughter and chatter, your tears and frowns?—to glimpse the Real You which is hidden behind the mask of your face. But they never seem to suspect that there is any other You than that which they see and hear. And sometimes you are irritated by their stupidity and lack of sympathy. If they'd only try to understand that hidden self. It must be because they're so shallow themselves that they don't appreciate the depths in you—that's what you think, isn't it?

Miriam is irritated, too—so irritated that she has written me about it. There, on the page, is the story of Miriam's Outside Life, the story of a girl who is always the "life of the party" at home or abroad, the carefree, lucky one—

"Nothing ever worries Miriam," folks say—and Miriam is tired of hearing them say it.

"No one ever thinks I have any troubles," she storms, "and maybe I haven't in the usual 'bad luck' way, but, Elsie, my heart is hardly ever really, truly happy. Sometimes this laughing outside Me doesn't seem to be part of my Real Self at all. It's almost as if I was off on a desert island, all alone, and frightened and miserable. I don't always feel that way, but it comes every now and then—sometimes when I seem to be jolliest. Or sometimes I feel so solemn as if I were in a great, dark church, and the music was playing, and I wanted to cry. Or, again, I feel actually cruel.

People Incredulous.

"But if I tried to tell anyone about these feelings do you think they'd believe me? I'll say they wouldn't! They'd laugh at me and say it was a new kind of joke. But, oh, it isn't a joke, Elsie. It is like a heavy secret which I must always carry in my heart. It wouldn't be so hard if someone else could understand and know what I am going through. But do you suppose anyone can? Is anyone else like this?"

Dear little Miriam, we're all like that. Someone whose name I never knew wrote these four lines:

> "Men are spirits clad in veils,
> Man by man was never seen;
> All our striving somehow fails > to lift that which lies between."

That is true. We are all veiled each from the other. And only rarely do our veils give any true clew to the person who is hidden beneath.

That girl who marcelled your hair at the beauty shop—her Real Self is veiled, too. You see a pretty painted face, bleached curly hair, a saucy, slangy manner, a calculating eye. But the girl hidden behind that veiling manner is quite different. Her eyes are not calculating—they are hungry and wistful and dreamy. Her hair isn't bleached or her face painted—she is, perhaps, like a very beautiful, naked savage. She, too, is lonely and frightened, rebellious and sad, just as you are. But you never think of that as you watch her deft, manicured fingers arrange your hair?

All Like That.

We're all like that. Even those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we think we understand and who are sure they understand us—they are like that. Husbands and wives, parents and children, teachers and pupils, sisters and brothers, lovers and friends, they are all veiled from each other. Nor can the greatest wisdom or the most devoted love ever penetrate that veil.

WHY DON'T YOU UNDERSTAND ME?
ELSIE ROBINSON

"But if we were perfectly honest with each other couldn't we do away with the veils?" asks Miriam. "If we told each other exactly how we felt instead of pretending to feel something else, wouldn't it clear up all this groping and fumbling and misunderstanding?"

No, Miriam, it wouldn't. For we couldn't be "perfectly honest" with each other. We couldn't tell each other "exactly how we feel." Why not? Becaus we don't know what we DO feel nor what we "really are." We, TOO, ARE VEILED FROM OUR OWN UNDERSTANDING. This queer muddled life we live is like a caul about our heads. We are always a little blind, a little lost in the dark . . . Maybe when our time of passing comes, the veil of illusion will drop from our eyes and we, whom they mourn as dead, will stand forth free and happy, our TRUE SELVES at last. I hope so. I think so. But for the present we cannot know.
